Roger Caudell is a multi-talented individual and the artist whose painting covers the 1986 Cougar Pinnacle. Roger teaches Auto Body, but readily goes above and beyond his job requirements. One of his many accomplishments was being the recipient of the National Trade and Industrial Education Teacher Award for 1984. For this honor he received a commendation from Governor Charles Robb.

Roger Caudell's talents can be seen all around the campus, especially at County Stadium. Former students continue to marvel at the attention he gave to small details and the sincere interest he showed to each of them.

We of the 1986 Cougar Pinnacle Staff wish to thank Roger Caudell for his magnificent contribution, not only to this yearbook, but to the students and the community as well.

Life

“Life at PCHS has been a definite experience. Coming from a smaller school it was sort of scary walking in a school filled with over 2,000 students. It was an adjustment but I have grown to love it.

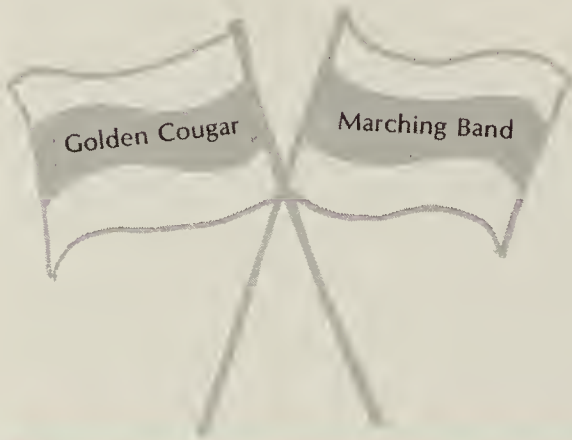

— Samantha Warren

Band, Ten — Hut! SOUL!

"It was a natural high."

— Bob Priest

Although most spectators never quite heard the exact words being said, it did get their concentration to the football field where the half-time show was about to begin. Many new "attention getters" were worked into the performances in 1985-1986: the forming of the American flag; the spelling of USA; the singing of "We Are the World". Adding to the color and excitement of the overall pageantry were the new, lavishly detailed uniforms which presented a problem for some members who were trying to get dressed in a hurry. The show was always spectacular; the band was always together. And despite all the aching muscles and the common fatigue the hard work did pay off.

The band came home from the Wise, Virginia competition as tournament champions. Ask any of the band members how it felt to be in the band and they would say, "Now that was an EXPERIENCE!"

The American flag was an awesome event at the conclusion of the October 18 half-time show held with Allegheny High School.

The spelling of USA gave a sense of pride to the fans.

Loren Reiss, a Senior in the band, gets "into the groove" during his solo of "Big Band Blowout".

Senior band members were introduced at the October 18 football game half-time show.

Abracadabra!

"Homecoming was great!"
— Kelly Brewster

P oof! And with a wave of a magic wand, a spell of good times and super-spirit was cast over the student body during the week of October 21-26, 1985. The usually ordinary life of Cougar Country was suddenly transformed into a frenzied excitement. The fervor was felt in the laughter and apprehension expressed as classes worked on decorating locker banks; it was seen in the carefully planned floats and showcases; and it was heard in the cheering roar which the students attempted to send up I-81 to Northside High School.

Kiss a pig? Well, maybe a frog, but . . . Senior Brad Golden did just that after receiving the most votes in the first annual "Kiss a Pig" contest which was sponsored by the Gymnastics team. The entire pep rally proved to be so well conducted, Mr. Wilson gave the students a hearty commendation.

John White and the Elite Band cast a magic spell upon the Homecoming Dance.

Homecoming Royalty: King, Rodney Landreth; Queen, Rhonda Cecil; Prince, Randall Gusler; Princess, Lisa Corder; Duke, Bryan Akers; Dut- chess, Lori Game.

Kelly Brewster escorted by Scott Dawson join the Homecoming Court as they are announced at the dance.

During the Homecoming football game the annual event of burning the victory sign was held to spark the spirit of the crowd.

As he crosses the goal line, Jimmy Harris, #4, makes the second touchdown for the Cougars while a Northside player attempts to make a tackle.

Thrilled at being on the Homecoming Court, Lori Game gives a big smile as she is chauffeured during half-time by a member of the Corvette Club.

Having the rare honor of kissing a live pig, Brad Golden puckers up in front of the student body at the Homecoming Pep Rally.

"A new experience."

— Donna Wheeler

The loss of the game that night did not diminish the pride and support felt by the students for their super Cougar football team. Everyone looked forward to the dance on Saturday night and the announcement of the Homecoming Queen and King.

The enchantment of that evening was enhanced by the attractive members of the Homecoming Court. All those attending clearly enjoyed the music of the John White and the Elite Band.

Stepping into the crisp night air after the dance, students felt the spell of the past week suddenly lifted. The magic of that past week was not lost; it would always be a special time remembered by all those who experienced it.

"Prom was really great! The band was really good and it made the Prom a lot of fun."

Mike Hall

Two For The Show

Opening night, April 27, 1985. The stars of this production were members of the Class of '85 and the Class of '86. As honored couples arrived at the entrance of the lobby, they received passes allowing them to enjoy a cinematic extravaganza. Work for this Prom had begun in September, 1984 when the Junior class officers had a brainstorm and decided upon a theme. Their early visions became a pleasing reality when the actual production began in early April, 1985.

Once guests entered the lobby on that long-awaited evening, they found themselves surrounded by well-known scenes from famous movies; the most popular set was the beach scene next to the entrance which involved mounds of sand and an actual white sportscar.

The dreamlike quality of that special night was completed with life-sized posters of Marilyn Monroe, Sophia Loren, and The Duke, John Wayne, placed beside the band, Power Play.

Adding the final touch, Levette Hale, Leslie Woolwine, and Beth Askew check to make sure the decorations are intact.

Dancing cheek to cheek, Steve McCourt and Leslie Worrell enjoy a dance to the tune "Penny Lover".

Jamming is the only way to do it as Power Play entertains the guests at the Prom.

Taking a break from the dance floor, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Flinchum enjoy some of the refreshments.

"It gave me an insight on the Class of '85."

— Chris Stafford

Saving the Best for Last

A tear could be seen here and there, and many broad smiles could not be suppressed as Mr. Dewey Wilson pronounced the Class of 1985 to be graduates of Pulaski County High School.

For many Seniors, it was difficult to believe that June 2nd had truly arrived. The day had seemed so distant when their special year had begun in August. Most had found that being a Senior really did have rewards: leaving for lunch five minutes early or marching into pep rallies while the other classes stood and clapped. Many Seniors did get a preview of their big day when Mr. Edmonds, Jenkins representative, measured each one for his cap and gown. Most would never forget the first time they placed the mortarboard and tassel on their heads and looked into the mirror.

At 8:00 p.m. the Seniors had begun to march into the gymnasium to the traditional Pomp and Circumstance. Their heads were held high as they were seated. Chip Sparks, Senior Class President welcomed everyone, and Valedictorians, Joseph Guthrie, Allison Howerton, and Anthony Minter gave their speeches. Tina Smith and Margaret Weaver also spoke sharing experiences and hopes for the future with their fellow graduates.

In a last show of appreciation, the Senior class gave Mr. Elmer Huff, Assistant Principal, a standing ovation. It was one of the last things which they would do together as a class. Looking ahead, they saw varied futures, but the year they had shared would always be theirs to cherish and remember.

Graduates felt happiness as they prepared to receive their diplomas.

Beth Weaver, Salutatorian, gives her speech to a hushed audience.

Going through a dress rehearsal before the big day, Seniors leave the gymnasium.

The Appalplayers, Jeanette Blankenship, Sam Leary, Scott Rupe, Heidi Wood, Autumn Kidd, Cindy Hall and Laura James perform the Jack Tale, "Jack and the Robbers".

Intricately made quilts were one of the varied showcases and exhibits set up for visitors while they toured the Commons area.

Jackie Hall helps to serve refreshments in the Commons during the festival. All food was prepared by the Appalkids.

The spinning wheel was demonstrated by Grace Leary of Radford. The children were especially fascinated with the process.

Stringed instruments are a favorite object of the Appalachian culture. Teresa Wheeling, a former PCHS graduate, demonstrates the dulcimer.

Festival of Life

"We learned alot; we were exposed to a lot of cultural things like the Ferrum College and Radford College Programs.

— Sam Leary

The first APPALACHIAN CELEBRATION was held at PCHS on Saturday, May 11, 1985. Sponsored by the APPALKIDS, the event gave students and community the unique opportunity to see, taste, touch, and hear the richness of the Appalachian culture.

The Commons teemed with aromatic smells; pit-cooked barbeque chicken prepared by Roscoe Farris of Dublin; spicy-sweet apple pies; and brown beans served with hot buttered corn bread.

Twenty-three exhibits were presented and proved to be both enlightening and fun. A favorite demonstration was the operation of the spinning wheel by Grace Leary of Radford.

In the Little Theatre, the audiences were entertained with music from the APPALPICKERS; a premiere performance of a Jack Tale, "Jack and the Robbers" by the APPALPLAYERS; a demonstration of the history and operation of the American long rifle by Thurlo Sudden of Pilot, Virginia; a rousing performance by the Hick and Heck Cloggers of Blacksburg; and a musical history presentation of the five-string banjo by John Viers of Dublin.

By the day's end, all participants felt a greater appreciation for the place they called home.

This is as good as it gets! Miss Juicy Fruit is Michael J. Smith.

Ready for action. Jerry Smith disguised as Geraldine Hendrix, struts his/her stuff across the stage of the Little Theater.

“The Boy’s Beauty Pageant was a real humorous experience.”

— Jennifer Johnston

“The First Lady”

Senior boys from the Class of '85 raided their mother's closet to find the most alluring outfit possible. Lights were dimmed and the ravishing beauties were escorted onto the stage.

Many of these fellows swallowed their pride and transformed themselves into the opposite sex. Styles for this extravaganza were exotic and unusual ranging from Hawaiian dancers to Tina Turner's little sister.

During intermission, entertainment was provided by Junior Page. The contestants decided not to refresh themselves but instead danced for the audience.

There was not a moment of silence as the audience rolled in the aisle with laughter. Many persons could have mistaken these fellows for ladies.

Aunti Em! Uncle Henry! It's a twister! It's a twister! Jay Nash is Dorothy from the Land of Odd.

Eat your heart out Dolly, Tina Turner's sister, Lee Ann, (alias Lester Kimbrough), has arrived.

Anything Goes

"Clothes are much different from those which were worn at the middle school.

— Kristi Hall, Freshman

Each morning as students were awakened by their alarm clocks they slowly got out of bed and went to their closet for the most important decision of the day. What to wear was on the minds of many. The decision was hard because there were so many different styles. Styles included the western look, classics, new wave, punk, and casual. Then there were those who didn't really care what they wore; who simply grabbed whatever was nearest to them. Of course to go along with fashion clothes had to have that unique hair design. Ann Cody, Shauna Goodkin, and Seth McMillan contributed to this by either shaving, mousing, or bleaching their hair. Who would have ever thought that these outrageous trends would pass through our town? They certainly did, and also made a big impression on several school members. Where did all of these styles come from? MTV? The movies? Or just plain imagination? Many students experimented with the different styles that were trendy. These students were the ones who dared to be different. There were some students who were comfortable with just an old pair of jeans and a T-shirt. One of the old trends that carried over from last year was the all time favorite jean jackets with the buttons that had various sayings on them such as "Class of '86", "WHAM!", or just "I'm not deaf I'm ignoring you". Whatever the fashion, just about every new and old look imaginable was represented at Pulaski County High School.

Lori Rakes and Alan Hall are wearing the ever popular jean jackets.

Caps were worn by many of the students and faculty. These caps bore different messages and were every color of the rainbow. Mr. Gary McCoy dons a Virginia Tech cap on this occasion.

Dockside shoes, a large sweater and jeans were frequently seen worn by the males at PCHS. Here Greg Spraker studies his notes for a test.

Karen Roberts demonstrates the versatile hemline, while Tina Durham sports the loved jeans and tennis shoes. Kelly Poole looks on.

Terri Dickerson and Dionne Boyers wear strikingly different outfits, both quite fashionable this year.

Miss PCHS Susan Mitchell, first runner-up Lisa Spencer, and second runner-up Noelle Turner show the pride they felt as they represented PCHS.

After all votes were tabulated, and the winners were announced, the girls hugged and congratulated each other.

Ms. Renee Wright Miss PCHS 1984, congratulated the new Miss PCHS Susan Mitchell while the audience applauded.

Kim Anderson poses for an individual picture that was taken before the pageant. Many girls took advantage of this opportunity.

One of a Kind

"Becoming Miss PCHS is quite an experience. I feel that it is a great honor to be able to represent my class and my school in that way."

— Susan Mitchell

One question was on the minds of all people November 15, 1985, as they entered the Little Theatre. Who would be chosen as the new Miss Pulaski County High School? Seventy-one girls competed for this title. The requirements were a class, club, or organization had to sponsor her; she filled out a contestant form, and paid a fee of five dollars. It sounded easy enough. The night finally came, and each girl wondered if her dream of being crowned the new Miss PCHS would come true. The moment came, the curtains opened; and the audience watched intently as each contestant gracefully strolled up to the microphone and gave her name and whom she was sponsored by. The girls were escorted by Tim Gravley, Edward Turner, Chad McClanahan, and Clay Dishon. After each girl had taken her turn, the judges took one last look before the girls rushed off to check their appearance quickly. Then, the judges were ready to announce the names of the ten finalists. Each hoped she would be chosen. The judges took another look as the ten finalists competed. At last, they had made their decision. The master of Ceremonies, Mr. Don Skeen, announced the winners. After Miss PCHS 1984, Miss Renee Wright, took her last walk on the stage, Renee congratulated and gave awards to second runner-up, Noelle Turner, and first runner-up, Lisa Spencer. She then gave up her crown to Miss Susan Mitchell, the new Miss Pulaski County High of 1985. The new Miss PCHS smiled and accepted her crown with much pride and enthusiasm. She now had obligations such as being in the Pulaski County Christmas parade December 7, 1985. Along with this honor and many others, she also received a fifty dollar savings bond. Susan would wear her crown proudly for the year of 1985-1986 before handing it down to her successor.

A White Christmas

"I enjoy the hectic songs for the Christmas concert because they're the songs we really enjoy singing."

— Doug Ervin

Mention the word "Christmas" and all the faces — teachers, students, and staff persons — lit up instantly. For many the two week vacation was a welcome break. For others, holiday trips and getting together with family and friends once more was the reason for their smiles. The excitement built up a great deal during the last week. All of the pods were decorated with the scents and sights of Christmas. Trees decorated by groups such as the Appalkids and office personnel gave the building the Yuletide spirit. In the Vocational Building, decorations and community projects such as DECA's Operation Santa Claus put everyone in the true spirit of the holidays.

During the last week of school, students juggled studying for exams with shopping for their friends. Downtown Pulaski and downtown Dublin were decorated with festive red, green, and gold colors which lent a joyful note to everyone's day. Also during that week, the concert choir performed in the pods and gave a special performance in the Cougar Den. Earlier in the month the Concert Band had entertained the community with a performance of beautiful holiday music, and many other clubs and organizations held special meetings and celebrations for their members.

On the last day of school, December 20, the students arrived in a white mini-blizzard. Although it melted that afternoon, snow heightened the excitement felt by everyone.

Singing Christmas carols to the English Pod is the Concert Choir. The Choir goes to all the Pods every year singing Christmas carols and spreading Christmas cheer.

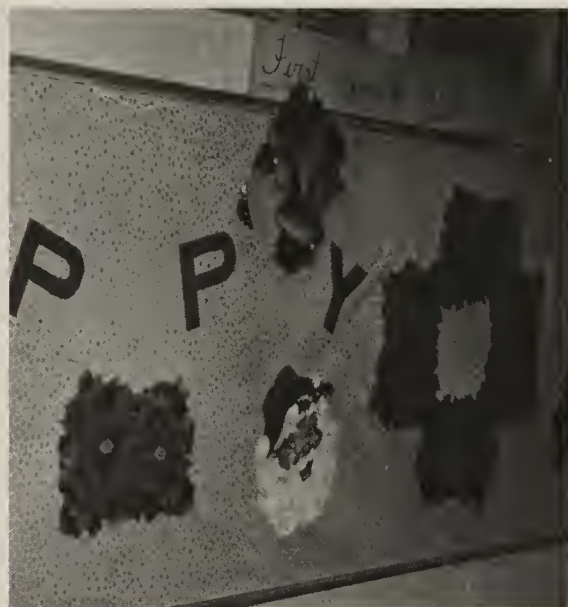

The traditional Christmas symbol is the Christmas tree. Here the Office has their tree decorated with home-made ornaments of snowflakes, fans, and bows.

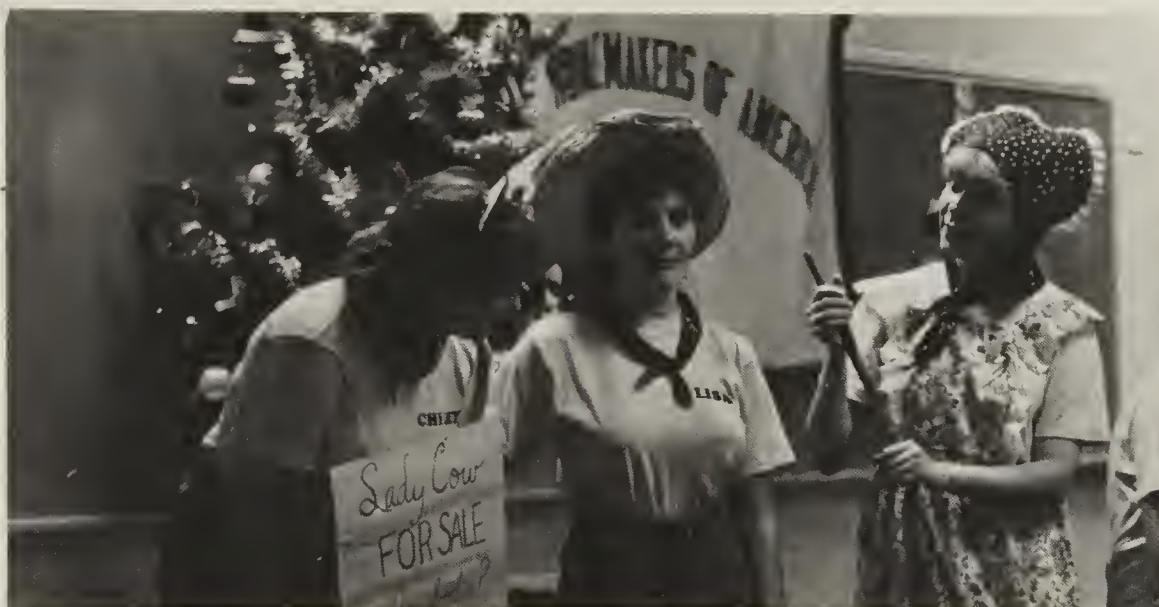

Santa's Little Helpers are busy wrapping Christmas presents for the needy. Many clubs help during the Christmas season by providing for the people in the county.

The Math Pod Bulletin Board wished everyone Happy Holidays and a cheerful smiling Santa.

The Appalkids perform a holiday program for the faculty Christmas party.

The Cougar's Pride

The Cougar Pride Awards were given to a small percentage of students and/or groups of students who had achieved some type of goal set for them or had done something to improve the school.

In the spring of 1985, the Chess Team placed first in the state competition and second in the nation. Thirteen students placed in the State High School Division. At the Atlantic Coast Championship the following people placed in the overall High School Division: C. Daugherty — 1st; C. Bushong — 2nd; C. Byrd — 3rd; D. DeHaven — 5th; T. Callis — 6th; D. Clemson — 7th; and J. Epperly placed first in the Category V Competition. In the Junior High Division R. Mabry placed 1st overall and E. Anderson placed 10th overall. The Junior High placed second in the overall competition.

The baseball team had an outstanding season in the spring. Ken Shepherd and Charles Crowder were chosen for the first team in the All District game. Chuck Daugherty was chosen first alternate for the All State Team.

After football season was over the Southwest Times chose Rodney Landreth for their Player of the Year. John Myers, Brian Golden, Nick McCrary, Chris Graham, Jimmy Harris, Richie Hurst, and Rodney Landreth were all chosen for All R.V.D. District.

Monte Brown and Kenny Hampton were chosen Outstanding Lightweight and Heavyweight while lifting for the Cancer Society, and in February, Mickie Thomas and Richie Hurst both broke school records. The Class of 1988 received awards both for Outstanding School Spirit and Respect at Pep Rallies.

Mickey Thomas breaks a new school record. Mickey squat-lifted 650 lbs., the old record was 611 lbs.

Chris Bushong received a Cougar Pride Award for his chess achievements and outstanding academic performance.

Good citizenship is what these five young men displayed throughout the year: John Myers, Brad Golden, Chris Graham, Brian Golden and Kenny Myers.

THE NO. 1 PRIORITY FOR EVERYONE.

PCHS students and faculty alike got into the fitness awareness which swept the nation earlier this year. In August students returned to school healthy and slim after a summer of fresh foods and outdoor activities. This year, however, many worked to maintain their summer health throughout the year. The Weight Room in the field house was a favorite place for coaches and athletes to work out and stay fit. The students set individual goals and gradually worked up to their set levels. Safety was emphasized to each person who came in to use the weight equipment; strains and injuries were easy to sustain if one wasn't careful. The faculty was introduced to some new thinking about staying healthy during the summer.

Faculty members, Diane Wright, Maggie Manning, Nancy Sparks, and Betty Holcomb attended the Blue Ridge Health and Wellness Conference held at Mary Baldwin College earlier in the summer. During their week they learned not only about the importance of daily exercise and a balanced diet, but also about many current health topics such as high blood pressure, stress related illnesses, heart disease, and cancer. When the four teachers returned they continued to use what they had learned. Each month they sent around information packets about various health concerns to the teachers. Mr. Riley, Mrs. Faye Hanks, and Mrs. Jeannie Hillman were some of the faculty who set long-range fitness goals and worked to attain them.

Many students got involved in fitness activities at home or they chose to join clubs in the community. Pulaski Community Hospital and Radford Community Hospital sponsored classes in health care in which students enjoyed participating. Some area churches had aerobics classes as well as did New River Community College. For the school and community this was certainly the year that being healthy was the number one priority for everyone.

Music and t.v. were popular among everyone. The Huxstables' were the ideal family, as well as the most comical. Music of different types pleased some and upset others. But no matter what the tune, everyone listened to some form of music, and enjoyed!

Mr. Elmer Huff is a favorite among faculty and students alike.

Allan Hall, Rick Gynn, Ronnie Ryne, Alice Moore, Terri McConnell, and Angie Vanhoy model a variety of concert t-shirts which they bought before, during, or after their favorite groups' performances. Sometimes tickets for these concerts ran as high as $20.00, but for a live show it was worth it.

Rick Springfield was one of the most popular artists in concert.

The Cosby Show became an instant favorite and every Thursday night Bill Cosby proved why he is America's top-ranked comedian.

Although Alabama was the top choice among PCHS country music fans, the Oak Ridge Boys was the close second.

Darlene Moon, Angie Smith, Jill Simpson, Angie Charlton, Suzette Weeks, Kim Warden, Kathy Patterson, model their concert t's.

Whitney Houston was the unanimous choice for female vocalist.

Top-notch entertainment is always Cougar sporting events. Here Mr. Tinker Hillman preserves a football game for the yearbook.

Mr. Carl Lindstrom dutifully helps out the Red Cross by donating blood.

Here J.V. Cheerleader, Cindy Jones is all smiles as she lends her voice to edge on the basketball players.

"Life as a PCHS student meant never being without something to do."

— Deena Eden

Living Impressively

The life of a PCHS student got really hectic at times. Students were involved in clubs that took up much of their day. Some of the clubs were based on classes that the students took during the year. Other clubs were civic clubs or clubs based on the student's hobbies.

Clubs were one of the biggest activities which included school plays and sports. The sports offered were anything from football to gymnastics. Students not only participated in these sports but did exceptionally well.

The most interesting part of a student's day was the time spent socializing. One found students in the locker banks talking of the past weekend and how they spent it or in the commons planning for the upcoming weekend.

During the weekdays students had other things besides schoolwork to keep them busy. If one was not a participant in some of the activities going on one could have attended them. In the fall there were the football games and the volleyball games. In the winter there were the basketball games and the gymnastics meets. And in the spring there were the track meets and baseball games.

On weekends students had a soc-hop to attend or a party at their friend's house. If neither of these two excited them they could always go riding around looking for things to do or stop off at their favorite restaurant.

Students could always find something to occupy their time.

The Cougar Marching Band gives an excellent performance on the streets of Martinsville.

"I've spent a lot of time in the science pod; Believe me it was time well spent."

— Sam Warren

A Most Unusual Place

When a student thinks of the Science Pod, what thoughts most often come to mind? Small laboratories filled with microscopes or smelly Bunsen burners, or maybe the penetrating scent of formaldehyde as he takes a deep breath? Maybe he thinks of the "chain of dissections" which he will have to perform in Biology, or maybe he thinks of the models of atoms which he will study in Chemistry. Normal impressions of a normal Science Department, right? Right. But not for the PCHS Science Pod! This section of the school is made up of unique classes with unique instructors. Students and teachers can have "close encounters" of many kinds in these classrooms.

The ordinary, expected classes of Biology, Chemistry, Earth Science, and Physics are there. But so are classes in German, Psychology. The strange cylindrical shaped door houses not secret space projects, but the publications' darkroom. As one wanders through the pod, one can feel the mutual respect which the teachers and students have for each other; this allows them the freedom to be themselves.

Since the beginning of time, man has searched for answers to his many questions. In taking classes offered in the Science pod, a student may find those answers.

Roberta Rollins takes advantage of the silence in the center of the pod to do some work.

Brenda Leonard does an Earth Science lab in Mrs. Fisher's class.

"A.P. Studio Art is a hard class because you have to be creative and let your mind go while having to concentrate on what you're doing." — Tracy Dobbins

NOT JUST ANOTHER "NUMBER".

The math pod didn't offer just "math-related" classes. Other classes were being taught such as art and computers.

The Art Department taught students the fundamentals of art: how to draw, paint, and even sculpt. The classes started with Art I in which students learned the basics of drawing. In Art II skills were broadened and students did more detailed work. In Art III and A.P. Studio Art, students used their own imagination and creativity in their projects while perfecting valued skills already learned.

There were also many choices of math classes ranging from basic math to college-bound Calculus. With such a large variety of classes to choose among, students could pick the course that best suited them and their needs.

Math skills weren't used in just math classes, either. Students in Chemistry and Physics used their acquired knowledge in solving equations to come up with the right answer.

Ms. Emma Gallimore, math pod department head described the F-Pod as being the "activity capital" of the school. Her description was very accurate because of the following organizations: Literary Magazine, Yearbook Business Manager, Cougar Pride Committee, Football Scouting Reports, and numerous Art decorating activities.

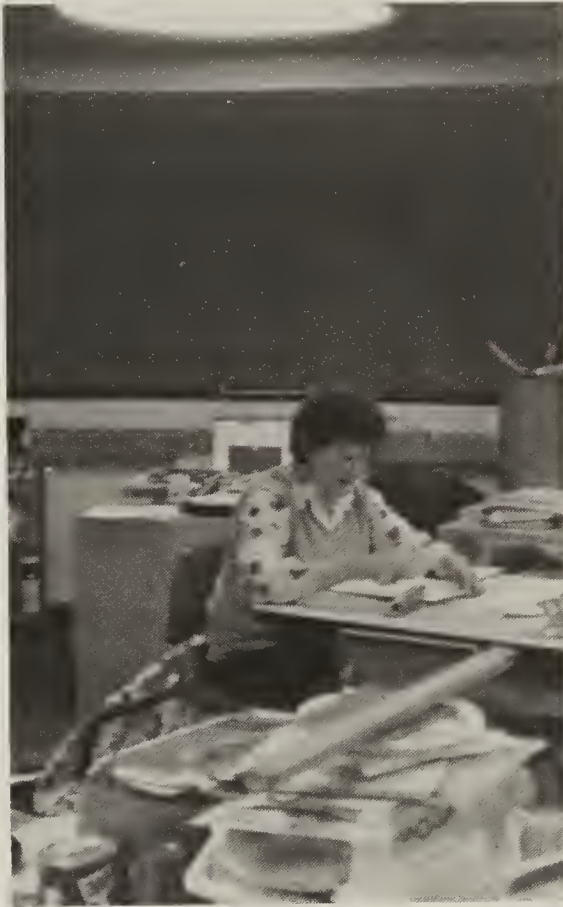

Freshmen, Melissa Kincer and Mary Dawson, work on an art project involving colors of the rainbow.

Mrs. Saltz gives her Art I class some ideas about using the color wheel.

Variety Makes English Exciting

"The English pod is the best pod Pulaski County High School has ever had!"

— Kathy Bishop

The English Pod was a very active place, with classes ranging from Appalachian Studies to Shakespearean Comedies. In every classroom something exciting was going on. Ninth grade students were studying The Odyssey and writing their personal essays. The elective system enabled upper-classmen to cover literature, advanced grammar, dramatic plays, and classes in decision making. Progressing through high school, a student could take a variety of classes unavailable to most teenagers in the New River Valley.

From D-11 the home of the school's two publications The Cougar Pinnacle and The Cougar Prowler, the sound of typewriters and busy people could be heard. "Who is this person?" and "How do I write this?" floated out into the pod many times. The literary magazine, Inklings, was also an active place for creative minds at work each day.

The English Pod was a very busy place, but it was a great deal of fun to be there, to work and meet with friends there. The teachers and the students enjoyed working together whether they were involved in writing a story for grammar class or cropping a picture for year-book. Everyone seemed to enjoy it.

Nonverbally, Tina Hill expresses herself by drawing on a pumpkin.

Brian Safewright works on a story in his class. Writing stories was a part of Freshman English which was enjoyable in each class.

Ms. Carol Hurst and Ms. Becky Hancock work together to plan the Forensics competition which is an annual event in the English Pod.

"The library couldn't function without the IMC student helpers."
— Mrs. Hullinger

IMC: More than Books . . .

In the physical sense, the IMC is the center of the school; in the instructional sense, it is the center of learning. At PCHS, the library is known as the IMC (Instructional Media Center) and it supports the entire school in many ways. It is filled with books, but it also contains many magazines, filmstrips, encyclopedias, and updated newspapers. The IMC is a place in which students search for books for their own personal pleasure. It is also a place to find information for essays, research papers, or reports.

Students play a very important role in the library as student aides. They assist the librarians and secretaries in many different ways. Each student aide has his or her own bookshelf to which they return books, straighten, and keep in order. Using the computer, they also check out books for students. A class is offered to students called IMC Skills; it is taught by Mrs. Hullinger and students receive a credit for taking the class.

Mr. Warrington is making an audio-visual tape called "The Use of the IMC." It will be an instructional assistance to newcomers as well as to the present students at PCHS.

The librarian, Mrs. Hullinger, has many different duties in the library. She takes care of keeping updated books on the shelves, notifies students about overdue books and also helps keep the shelves organized.

Some students use their time in the library to read the books they've checked out. Here Michael Tabor catches up on his reading skills by looking over his English text.

Paula Simpkins, a library aide, helps the librarians find some requested information.

Jamie Chandler and Rhonda Cox find the library is a great place to study quietly.

"Not a Piece of Cake"

"Being yearbook editor was an unforgettable experience. The hard long hours paid off when the yearbook was finally completed."

— Cheryl Cruise

Once again the Cougar Pinnacle staff came into the year with brainstorming ideas for a successful yearbook.

The staff had to adapt to many changes. One of the changes was a new adviser, Mrs. Vera Dancy, a native of North Carolina who formerly taught at Marion Sr. High. Mrs. Dancy was very new at the yearbook business. She stated, "Many long hours have been spent in the creation of this yearbook. It was hard work, but it was worth it." Another change was a new publishing company, Herff Jones, along with which came new procedures and techniques.

With the living nightmare of deadlines, everyone rushed to finish his layouts. Editor, Cheryl Cruise, spent many evenings along with Mrs. Dancy at the school tying up loose ends. The staff also spent many long hours in designing creative layouts. The copy was no picnic either. In order to have good copy one had to have a creative mind and a good knowledge of words.

The photographers had their share of work, too. They shared the responsibility of seeing that the pictures were taken, put on contact sheets, and printed before deadlines.

Missy Stoots, Cheryl Cruise, and Tina Jones devoted three years of hard work and dedication to the staff.

Mrs. Vera Dancy discusses ad sales with staff members.

"We are proud that we are the only school in the state to publish twice a month, and we reach the whole community." — Frank Kasik, Adviser

Prowling for Cougar News

Every other Tuesday in the Southwest Times a copy of the Cougar Prowler can be found. Mr. Frank Kasik, newspaper adviser, along with tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade students, take on the challenge of putting together the Prowler.

Hard work a well known phrase to the staff. For each issue the students are given stories, assignments, and are responsible for bi-weekly columns informing students of school events and available opportunities.

The paper is student oriented and student produced, with an eye toward the high school age reader at every level of publication. Mr. Kasik said, "The most important thing is that this is a student newspaper. The members of the class are responsible for story assignments, reporting, writing, and advertisement sales. I think we do a good job in covering the news that doesn't make the local paper and we try to give space to a wide range of school activities."

The local community is also a staff concern. Many Pulaski County residents are PCHS graduates and the Cougar Prowler's regular publication in the hometown newspaper keeps them up to date with their alma mater. The work is hard, the hours long, and the job is tough, but the school newspaper always makes it many deadlines.

Betsy Arnold works to correct her article before the next deadline.

A Feeling of the Past

"Social Studies is experiencing an increasing demand for elective classes for Juniors and Seniors."

— Mrs. Pat Reece

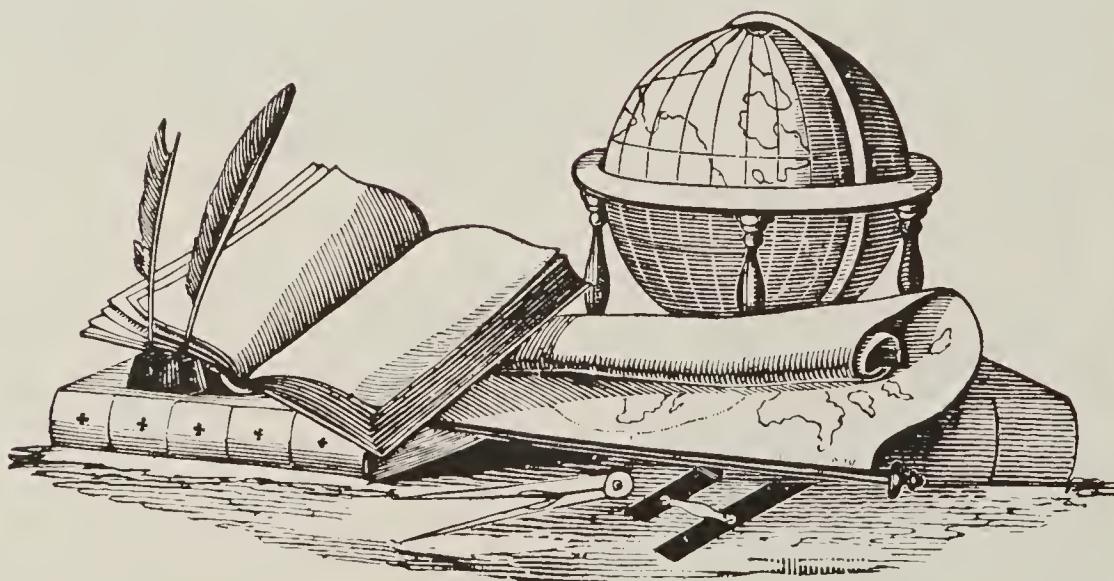

When walking into the Social Studies Pod, one experienced a feeling that George Washington and General MacArthur were still alive. Students studied about past life in relationship to present day life. Not only did they learn about history, but they could also learn the different languages of the world. Offered each year were courses such as World History, Geography, U.S. History, Psychology, Pulaski County History, U.S. Government, and Sociology. Students enjoyed learning a variety of languages including Spanish, French, Latin, and German.

Mrs. Reece, Chairman of the Social Studies Department, reported that there was a new class in the pod called World Cultures. Students truly enjoyed getting involved in the variety of experiences of this class. World Cultures is just another fine example of classes which make the Social Studies Pod an adventure all over the world.

There's nothing like being in the Marching Band!

— Iris Yates

We've Got the Beat!!

Behind all the glitter and the glamour of the PCHS marching band's spectacular performance there were many hours of hard work and practice. After a grueling day of classes most students were ready to go home to relax but for a student in the marching band his day had only begun. After classes it was out on the practice field for two and a half to three hours of practice with the band to perfect the show. All the practice paid off when the band received standing ovations at the football games and with the recognition they received at their various competitions they attended throughout the marching season.

Band members considered each other as one big family. Whether it was helping one another get into his uniform or making signs and banners for the buses before a big competition, everyone was always ready to lend a hand. Cooperation and teamwork were rewarding in themselves, and it was certainly nice when the work paid off as well as it did this year.

Drum majors Leigh Ann Fagg and Emily DeHaven pause before assuming the responsibility of leading the Cougar Band in a half-time performance.

Staying afterschool was nothing new for Leigh Ann Fagg, Emily DeHaven, and Ray Tuck who worked diligently on a sign to put on the bus for their next competition.

The 1985-86 Golden Cougar Marching Band poses for a picture of the entire group.

Helping each other get into their uniforms are Lisa Brown, Lori Rakes, and Emily DeHaven. This was one of the difficult tasks band members faced with their new uniforms.

Super Bands with Super Members

"Being a freshman, I have found a home in the band this year." — Terry Carr

The 1986 Cougar Bands worked hard this year to achieve what they most wanted — a harmonious sound, a winning sound. Not only did they rehearse long hours during the school week, but they stayed after school without complaints. Members of the band knew that a group without practice would not do well in the actual performance. Although the students could be in different bands, all felt they had to work together to be the very best which is what their 1985-86 season proved to be.

Three bands Symphonic Band, Concert I Band, and Ninth Grade Band played the Christmas concert together. Their performance was frequently applauded and everyone enjoyed the spectacular performance. It was at the Christmas concert that the loan note on the uniforms was burned; this gesture was made by Principal, Mr. Wilson, Mr. James Wyatt, and Mrs. Dody Brown, all persons directly responsible for helping the band to arrange for and purchase the handsome new uniforms which all members enjoyed wearing.

Band members felt a loyalty to their classes. They chose to be in the special bands for which they most qualified and most enjoyed. These classes were as important to the members as other subjects and the "homework" in this class obviously was done with much enthusiasm!

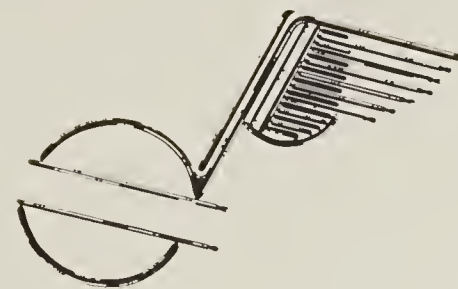

Concert Band I: First Row — Iris Yates, Robin Neel, Sherry Saunders, Teresa Alexander, Susette Weeks, Karen Belcher, Tonya Katz, Sandy Cecil, Diane Simpkins, Sherry Bean, Kim Cockeran, Rhonda Ayers, Amy Hall, Paula Simpkins, Isabella Jordan, Jill Brown, Kim Davis. Standing — Mr. Bob Priest, Robin Smith, David DeHaven, Keith Tribble, Robby Hodges, Karen Chinault.

Lance Yelton puts his heart into his class practice. Like other members, he greatly enjoys being in the band.

Mr. Priest enjoys his work. In his second year at PCHS he has improved all of the bands' performances.

John Wyatt, Do Do Brown, Mr. Dewey Wilson, Bill Chinault and Kenneth Dobson participate in the "burning of the bank note" held during the Christmas concert.

— Julie Gusler

Singing In Unison

La ... was the sound of the many choir members at the beginning of each class, warming up and getting their voices in key. Students had an opportunity to sing their hearts out and enjoy themselves.

There were four choirs to choose among. There was the ninth grade select, for which freshmen had to try out. In the girls choir, any girl who was in grades tenth through twelfth could join. Any girl or boy could join the mixed choir. The concert choir was for anyone in tenth, eleventh, or twelfth grades. Those who sang in the concert choir had to audition.

A wide range of music was studied, ranging from the early periods to the present. The students learned many different songs, both traditional and modern.

The director, Mr. Mont Quesenberry, worked hard to teach the students to read the sheet music, to sing in harmony, and to prepare them for their many performances. All four choirs gave a concert at Christmas and another one again in the spring. They also participated in district festivals, regional and All-Virginia Chorus, activities in the school and in the community. The concert choir also made appearances at the Red Carpet Inn, the Cougar Den, and at pep rallies.

Whether the students planned to further their music abilities or were just singing for fun, the choirs at PCHS put forth much time and practice to make music an important part of the holidays and of each school day.

All the choirs join together to sing "We are the World" at a football game for the cause of Pulaski for Africa.

BALL DODGERS . . . CONE DODGERS

The class work involved in Driver's Ed and P.E. was not the usual fare. Both had tests like other classes, but students never got to drive or play volleyball in their other classes. Driver's Ed. was a semester class in which the students learned the fundamentals of driving. Time was spent in the class room studying the rules of the road but students also went out on the range and practiced parking, backing up and many other driving skills. Every student could relate an experience having to dig cones from underneath the cars.

Gym was a year long class that was taken by ninth and tenth graders. Sometimes it didn't stop there. Some juniors and seniors became gym aides. Most did this because they wanted to continue being involved in activities and sports.

Coaches not only direct athletes but also serve the school in other ways. Here Coach Skeen acts as emcee of the Miss PCHS pageant.

"It's a lot of fun, exciting, and you learn new things."

— Sharon Gallimore

There is Simply More To It!

There is more to Home Economics and Child Care than simply sewing, cooking, and children. A lot more! Home Ec. is a class dealing with food, clothing, child development, and home furnishings. Family Management, a class mainly for juniors and seniors, deals with the human personality, dating, engagement and marriage. The mock weddings, an annual event, are held during this class. A unit on caring for children from birth to age three is enjoyed by the students.

There are also several semester classes which are offered as electives. Mrs. Kelly said that the enrollment had increased greatly in the past ten years. Child Care is a two-hour class for juniors and seniors. The purpose of this class is to become better "big people" for the "little people." Learning about the operations of a child care center is only the beginning. With a sad rise recently in child abuse a greater need arises for learning skills in proper discipline techniques. Students in Child Care II go to Claremont School and learn to work with school age children which prepares them for future occupations.

Mrs. Kelly reads over a list of things for her class to do.

Mrs. Susan Ficke "treats" the students from Child Care and does it in proper style.

Treena Stilwell aids Clay Walker and Adam Phillips as they attempt to make some cookies with only a minimum of mess.

Healthy Learning

One of the most "appetizing" classes offered in the entire school was the Food Services class. In this curriculum students learned the basics of working in large kitchens and they learned how to prepare large quantities of food for many persons. Although this class may have appeared easy, it often involved much hard work and a great deal of time was spent on preparation. The class members enjoyed working in the Cougar Den. Students and teachers also came to the Den for a variety of foods and the friendly atmosphere. Mrs. Weikle supervised the students.

Health Occupations was also a very popular class among the student population. The students who were in these classes prepared for a career in the health field. Because a need exists for a variety of skills, Mrs. Sparks taught many interesting topics along with the usual nursing preparation. Many students used what they had learned about health care outside the classroom. Students involved in Health Occupations could become a member of HOSA. This club provided programs and projects which brought members in contact with the professions toward which they were working.

Robin Matney took her preparation in health care very seriously and practiced what she learned about staying healthy.

Linda Andrews places an order with Charlotte Coble. Many students enjoyed eating in the Cougar Den.

Mr. Flinchum and Mr. Huff take a break in the Cougar Den.

Polly Baker, Penny Baker, Tomy Dean and Danny Harrell learn to work in a variety of food service occupations.

Cheryl Burton and Kim Corvin take time out of class to get the HOSA float ready for competition.

Tim Morris concentrates on his work while Mr. Barr looks on.

Electronics is one of the most popular classes in the Vocational School. Blair Smith demonstrates his interest to his classmates.

Planing wood is necessary to fit the wood for future use.

Kevin Hendricks practices safety in doing his classwork.

Setting bricks is taught in the construction classes. Students must learn to mix concrete and use it efficiently.

Electronics is fun, but hard. Working with the machines is pretty cool.

— Allen Shroder

Tools of the Trade

In ICT (Industrial Cooperative Training) classes, trades were learned for life. Some of the classes had to do with construction, such as World of Construction, Building Maintenance, and Building Trades.

The World of Construction class studied and practiced all phases of residential construction as well as architecture. Students gained skills with tangible results; this class aided vocational choices. It helped the students to develop more self-confidence by starting and completing projects.

Building Trades was a class offered to all students. In this class students learned house construction, carpentry and masonry. This class taught the students skills for their future use. A lot of the construction for the school was done in this class. Also the students competed with different schools through the VICA club.

Building Maintenance prepared students for classes in their junior and senior years. This class was designed to teach carpentry, masonry, electricity and welding that would be of help for students who would later be taking other ICT classes such as World of Construction and Building Trades and Electronics.

Electronics was also an ICT class; in this class, students learned the basics of electronics by working with actual circuits and by using the math theories to come up with solutions. The students competed through the VICA club on district, state and national levels in the respective skill areas.

"Drafting is about the only class I look forward to during the day."
— Kevin Whitaker

Trades For Life

Vocational ICT classes were trades for life.

Drafting was an introduction into a world of technology. A student got hands-on experience with mechanical and architectural drafting. Drafting was a drawing of precise measurements and pictures so that it might be manufactured or built. Mr. Davis directed students through the basic technical aspects of drafting.

Cosmetology was the art and science of hairdressing. In this class the students learned to shampoo; to set the hair; to give haircuts and permanent waves, hair coloring chemical relaxing, hair pressing, and manicuring; to give facials; to apply make-up; to advise wig care; to learn anatomy and chemistry. After completing 1080 hours of this training, a student could take a State Board Exam and, if successful, get a job as a hairdresser.

The Printing class was of big help to the school; students printed various in-school forms: brochures, memos, pads, charts, cafeteria forms and also the county Christmas card. In class, the students learned computerized typesetting, darkroom procedures, layout and design, plate making and offset press operations. On completion of this class, the students had job entry level skills for various printing jobs.

In Auto Body Repair, the students did about everything involved in repairing the automobile from collision, glass, and fiberglass repair, to welding and refinishing and body frame straightening. They also learned safety attitudes, and good work habits which will be valuable on the job.

Jeff Swick works diligently in his Auto Body class on refinishing an old Pinto.

Randall Rorrer works intensively on getting his design finished in his drafting class.

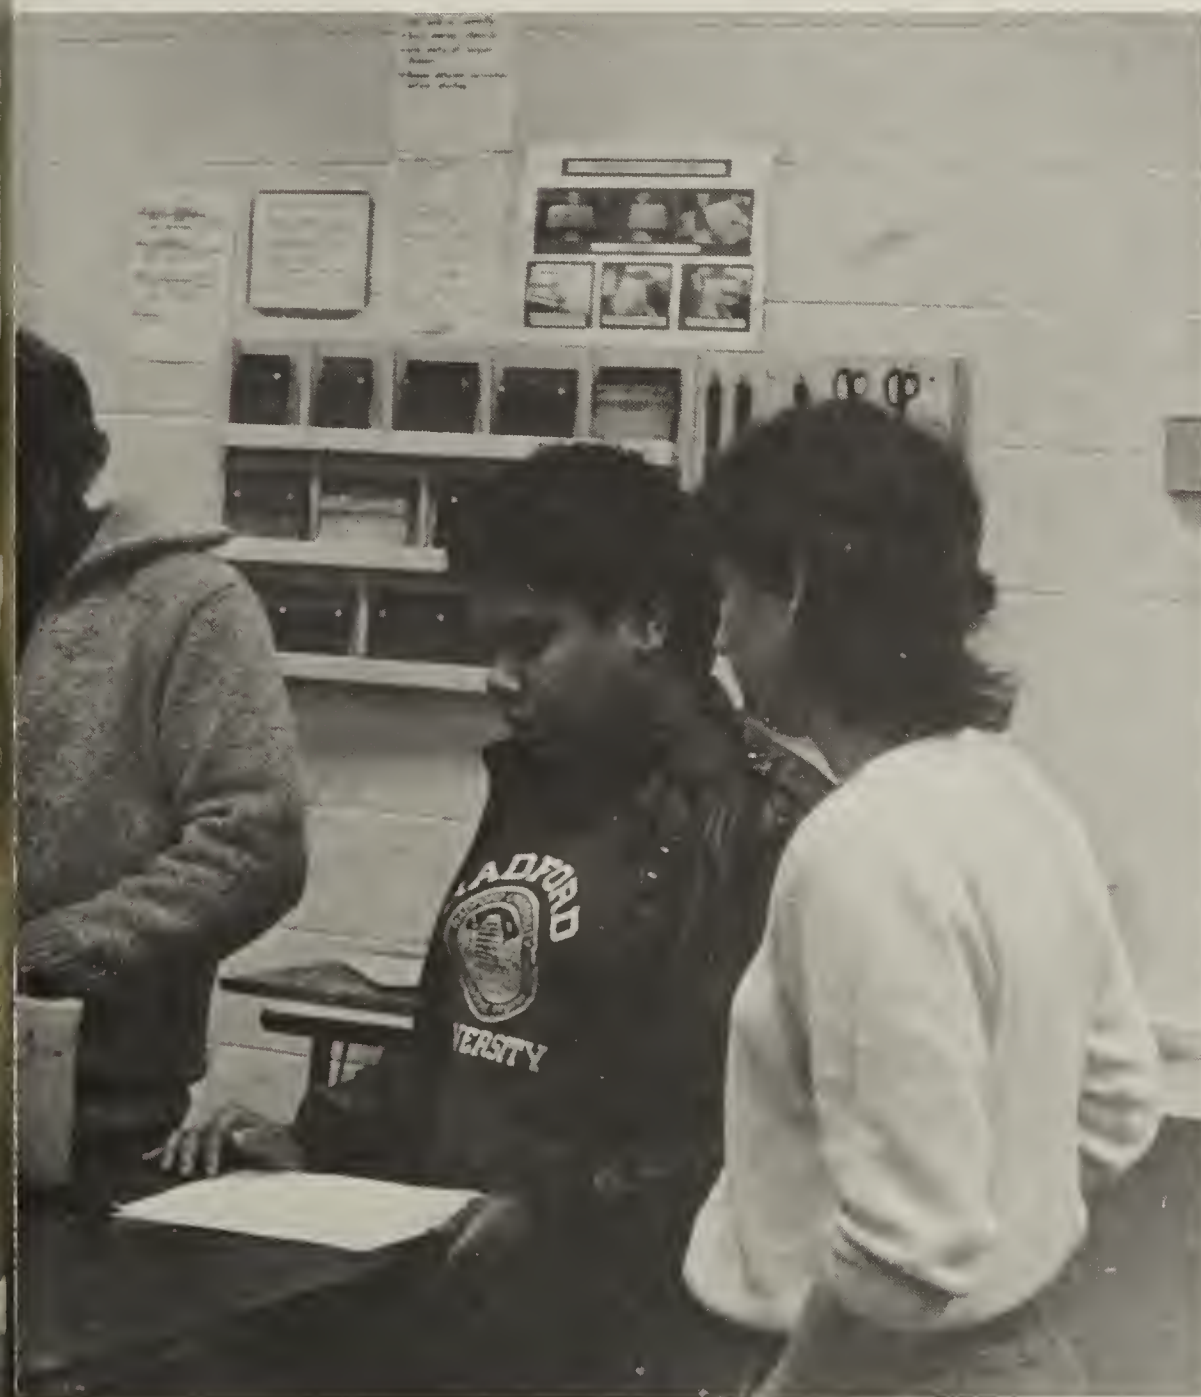

Mr. David Handwork explains to the printing class all of the basics.

Mr. Davis speaks to his drafting class on their project for the day.

Amy Linkous does her best on getting a manikin's hair to look just right.

"Marketing and Business are both classes I have found to be worthwhile."

— Missy Stoots

Skills for Life

Were you interested in a class that would not only help you now but throughout life? If so, then a business or marketing class might just be for you. There was a variety of business classes dealing with just about anything a student might need to know or learn. Classes for accounting, typing, shorthand, data processing, office technology, and business in general were ideal courses for work at home and the job. Marketing was for people interested in a career in the retail, wholesale and service industry. It was a three-year program starting in the tenth grade with Fundamentals of Marketing. In the second and third year students involved went to school half a day and then worked the other half.

Shannon Bishop and Duane Weaver enjoy programming a computer.

Mr. Hosp goes over his class notes with one of his Marketing classes.

Margaret Wyatt checks a computer print out in Mrs. Farmer's Computer class.

In Mrs. Lawson's first period class, students work hard to become competent office personnel.

Tammy Wright and Tasha Harless work on their assignment in Business class.

In Horticulture, Kendy Ousley, Susan Ratcliffe, and Billy Brewer work on poinsettias trying to get them ready to sell.

Students learn to plane wood in the agriculture classes a skill many will find very useful.

"The FFA is a learning experience for everyone"
— Robbie Smith

Planting for the Future

The Horticulture class is very helpful to our school. They decorate the stage for activities and supply corsages for different dinner activities, help decorate for mock weddings and decorate for Prom and Graduation. About one-half the time in the horticulture class is spent in the greenhouse, working with plants and different types of flowers. When the students aren't working in the greenhouse they can be found out on the ballfield working or in a flower shop. The horticulture class competes with a lot of the schools in Southwest Virginia and have state competition at Virginia Tech.

Agriculture and Horticulture are excellent classes for those who are interested in farming or floristry.

In Agriculture, students compete with other schools in areas of forestry, cattle judging, dairy judging, and tractor driving. These contests are done through the FFA (Future Farmers of America).

Another aspect of competition is public speaking. In 1985, an alumni, Joe Guthrie, became first runner up in the National Preparatory Public Speaking contest held in Kansas City, Missouri.

Outside of competition and FFA activities, students learn about arc welding and gas welding. Many of the students find the unit on woodworking to be a great deal of fun and they enjoy the many beautiful items which they create.

Mr. Dishon, teacher of agriculture, gets his grade book straightened before class begins.

Welding is a "hot class" which requires skill and care on the job. Chris Rotruck watches as Todd Belcher cuts metal.

Mr. Cox presents Ralph Lucado with a pin for his first year in the FFA club.

CLASS OF 1986

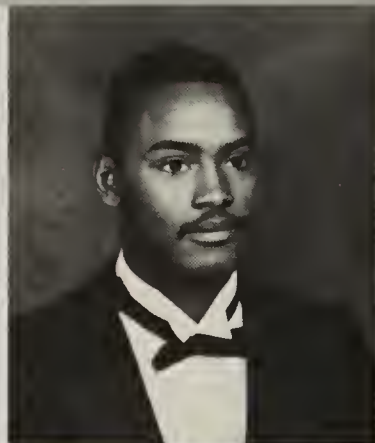

Getting ready for the real world . . . that was the theme of the Senior Class of 1986 as they entered school on August 22, 1985. Suddenly classes and school events took on a new meaning; there was the last football game, the last Homecoming Dance, the last basketball game, the last pep rally, the last time to swing the tennis racquet, baseball bat, or golf club, to perform the gymnastics or cheerleading routine, to pin an opponent in wrestling. The last time for the little things like eating lunch with friends or meeting at the locker to exchange Christmas gifts. While all these "lasts" were building up to that Big Event, Seniors were preparing themselves with future plans. With all the work, they always took time out for play. The Senior Steering Committee saw to it that there were "Seniors Only" events; dances, parties, cook-outs, and dinners. The honor of being a Senior was heightened daily as the class members left for lunch five minutes early or as they were applauded by the student body as they marched in at pep rallies. It was a wonderful year.

During Christmas break, the Class of 86 was saddened to learn that their class president, Bryan Akers, had died in an automobile accident. With courage they moved on with their special year, but often they would recall how precious was the time they shared. As spring brought graduation closer they began to make plans for vacations and many planned trips to the beach. When they looked back it was clear to them that they had been a special class, and one PCHS would miss.

With a smile on his face and a tremble in his heart, Shawn Hash gets his blood typed before giving his pint.

A Good Feeling

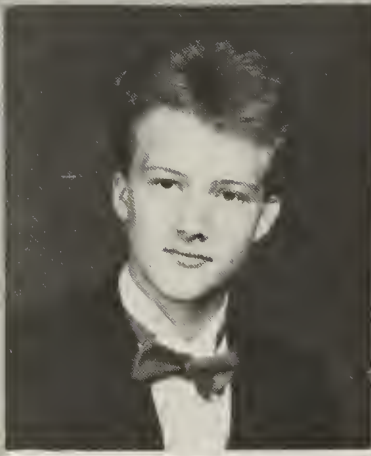

Seniors participated in many community projects but none more important than the donation of blood which would eventually help health professionals save many lives.

This event happened in January when the Blood Mobile came and set up in the Cougar Den. Sign-up sheets had been passed around in Government classes for anyone meeting the requirements and a large number of twelfth grade students (several giving blood for the first time) turned out.

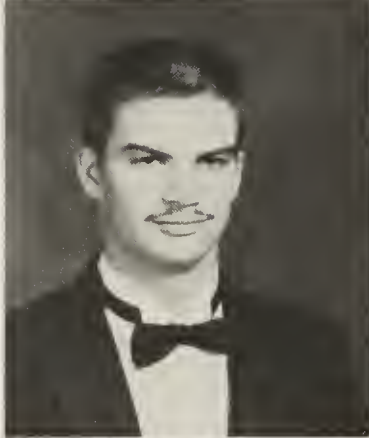

Volunteers from the Red Cross were kind and put the donors at ease. They also set up lounge chairs and passed out Cokes and refreshments for those who needed to relax before returning to class. Faculty and staff also gave blood.

Although some Seniors were slightly shaken after having given their pints, all agreed that the rewarding feeling which they felt would make them donate blood again in the future.

BRYAN LEE AKERS
JANUARY 25, 1968 — DECEMBER 26, 1985

We Remember Bryan

Everyone who knew him, loved him, and everyone respected him and knew that he was someone special. It could never be said that Bryan sold himself short in anything he did. Even though he had achieved undisputed excellence in his school work and activities he constantly strove to be better. Bryan was seldom content with anything he accomplished. He had quite an outstanding list of achievements. Among these: President of his Senior class; DAR Good Citizen Representative; ranked first in his Senior class; perfect attendant through school; third place in the Sherwood Anderson Short Story Contest;

S.C.A. member; attended the Governor's school for the Gifted at Virginia Tech and the Hugh O'Brien Leadership Seminar at George Mason University. He was Vice President of his Junior class, and he received the Cougar Pride Service Award for tutoring students. He was nominated for BOY'S STATE, and a member of the Senior Steering Committee. Bryan was also a student representative to the Pulaski County Department of Social Services. He excelled in athletics. He played football through his junior year, and placed second in the District Wrestling Tournament during his Freshman year. Bryan's death was a great loss to the community, but especially to the ones who knew and loved him. They will never completely be able to understand why he was taken away. It seemed to the ones closest to him that he was just too good for this world. Bryan will always be remembered by his Senior classmates, and he will forever hold a special place in the hearts of his many friends.

FOR THE CLASS OF

CLASS OF 1987

The Junior class had survived the first three years of their high school life. They survived the plague of being a Freshman tormented by all the upper-classmen. They lived through the unexciting Sophomore year where they were considered just a middle child in the family.

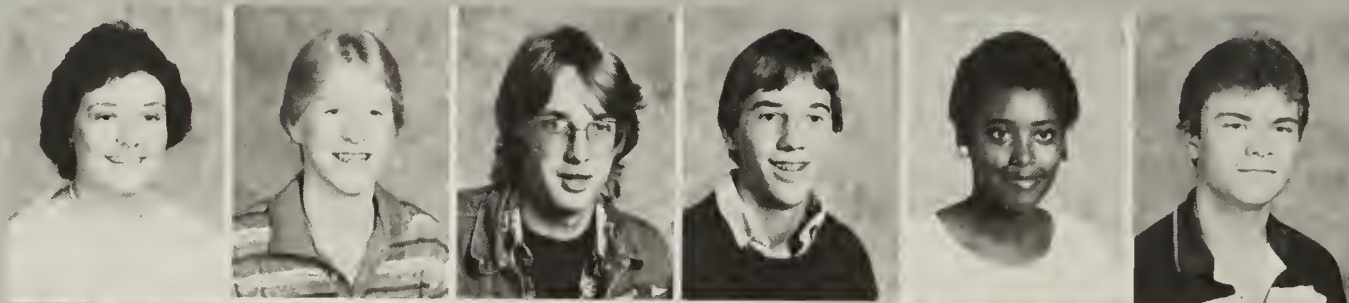

But now they were Juniors, and everything started rolling. While a Junior they experienced such privileges as class rings, getting to drive to school, early release, not having to take gym, more elective classes, and many other activities that were only for Juniors and Seniors.

Just one more year left in high school and they would be on their own. They worried about SATs and just getting through everything. As the Junior year ended, they looked back with memories, and they looked forward with anticipation and hope for a terrific Senior year.

Class rings. Say these words to any Junior and watch his eyes light up with enthusiasm.

The Juniors gathered in the Little Theatre for their first class assembly of the year. The excitement of finally being able to get class rings could be felt as the Juniors discussed their class ring choices. While most students bought their rings through the school by J. Jenkins Sons Co., Inc., many others chose to go to area jewelers and purchase other personalized styles. Price was an important consideration to many, but the unique style of the ring was more important to others. Styles of rings included dinner, medium, and miniature rings for girls. The guys could choose from regular or jumbo styles. All of the styles offered through the school were on display in the Commons Area. The students could look at them when deciding on their choice.

Class Rings!

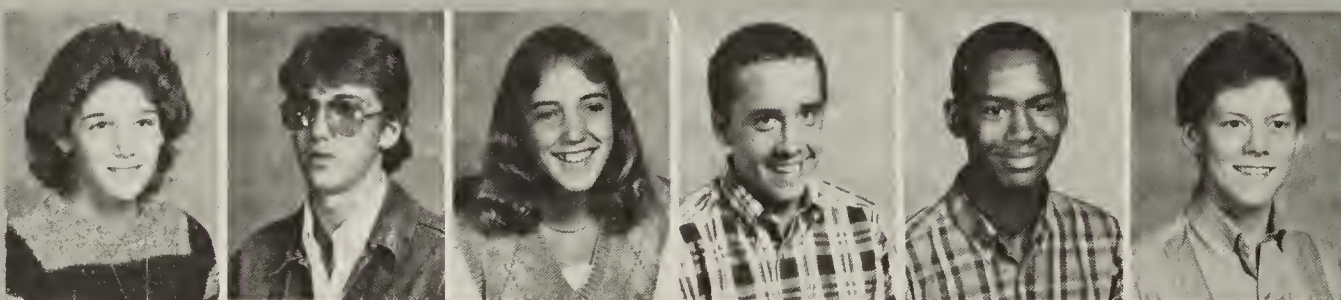

CLASS OF 1988

The Sophomores were known as the in between class at PCHS. Finally they were not underclassmen! One of the most popular classes among Sophomores was Typing I. Other interesting vocational classes which could be taken by the Sophomores were Printing and Drafting. Required classes were English, Algebra, and Science. Most of the English courses were only half a semester and the other half of the year 10th graders could choose from a wide variety of classes. The Sophomores could also look forward to not having to take P.E. and Health again. The biggest event for most Sophomores was taking Driver's Education and getting their licenses. Whatever classes the Sophomores took it was plain to see that they were preparing themselves to climb the next rung of the ladder at PCHS.

SOMPHOMORES, SOPHOMORES, SOPHOMORES

"Welcome to the pep rally!" Micky Hickman's voice would say. As the classes were asked to identify themselves, the Sophomore class did just that. Whether they were performing in the band, singing in the choir, or simply sitting in their class section they let their presence be known to all.

The class of 1988 showed everyone that they were proud to be sophomores by winning the spirit stick twice, and in the Homecoming Pep Rally, their class received the Cougar Pride Award. Whatever the Sophomores did, they proved to all that they had real class. Afterall they were the class of '88.

Allan Scott Keller
(May 3, 1969 — September 6, 1985)

A Friend To All

Alan Keller was a friend to all, to him no one was a stranger. He always knew what to say at the most opportune time. The example he set forth of sharing and caring unselfishly, as well as living each and every day to the fullest extent is one that should be followed by all.

— Mr. Bob Priest

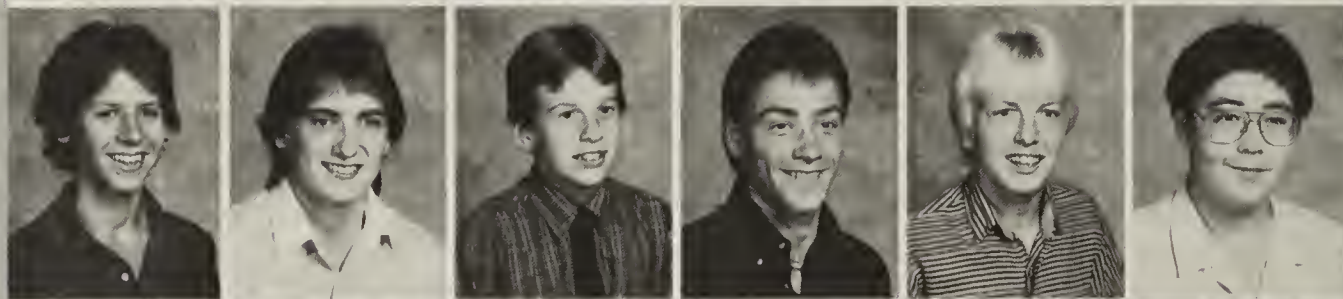

One morn I missed him on the custumed hill,
Along the heath, and near his favorite tree;
Another came; nor yet beside the rill
Nor up the lawn, nor at the wood was he;

CLASS OF 1989

Freshmen, the new kids on the block. During their first year of high school they had to put up with a lot of harassment and upperclassmen abuse. Pep rally tickets were sold to some of them and many were given wrong directions when they asked for directions to their classes. So how do you pick out a freshmen? In the first weeks of school it was quite easy; they seemed to be last ... everywhere. They walked faster than everyone else, had a paranoid look in their eyes, and they stayed away from trash cans and upperclassmen. After a few weeks, they fit right in and most began to enjoy being a PCHS Cougar. It was a big switch with all of the changes: a bigger school, new teachers, and, the best part of all, many new friends made and kept. The freshmen year of high school is an exciting time. The first day each one was a bundle of emotions — everything from scared to excited. The tension could be felt on that first day as students hesitantly entered their homeroom classes. But overall, it really was a great year. It was full of so many new things and so many great times. The class of '89 was well on its way.

Heather Gusler fills out yet another locator card. Locator cards are a necessary thing in a large high school.

Very Vital Statistics

Please give your name, home address, home phone, parent's name . . . these are the many questions which freshmen could almost recite after having filled out several different types of locator cards. The locator cards were used by secretaries, principals, and guidance to keep track of students' schedules.

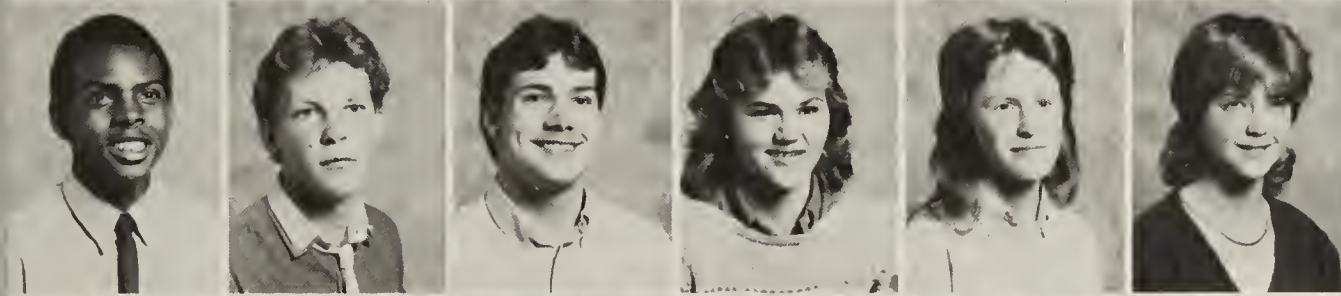

Freshmen who were not used to writing their "vital statistics" complained of having writer's cramp and being tired of listing their mother's maiden name. But the aggravation was small in comparison to the help which the cards proved to be during the school year. It would be impossible to operate the school as efficiently without them.

Cheers for the New Cougars

Freshmen Cheerleaders were some of the most obvious members of the new class. Their enthusiasm was overflowing and caught on rapidly when they performed at the freshman football, basketball, and wrestling matches. The school and the players of the freshman teams truly appreciated the effort and hard work these girls put into their cheering. Their school spirit was always as strong as that of the Seniors and they always performed up to par. Coming into a new school which was large and strange was difficult at best for all the incoming freshmen. Cheerleading gave the girls a closeknit family to belong to and a purpose to work toward. The freshman class was encouraged by this group to be the best they could be in spite of any difficulties encountered.

Getting Involved

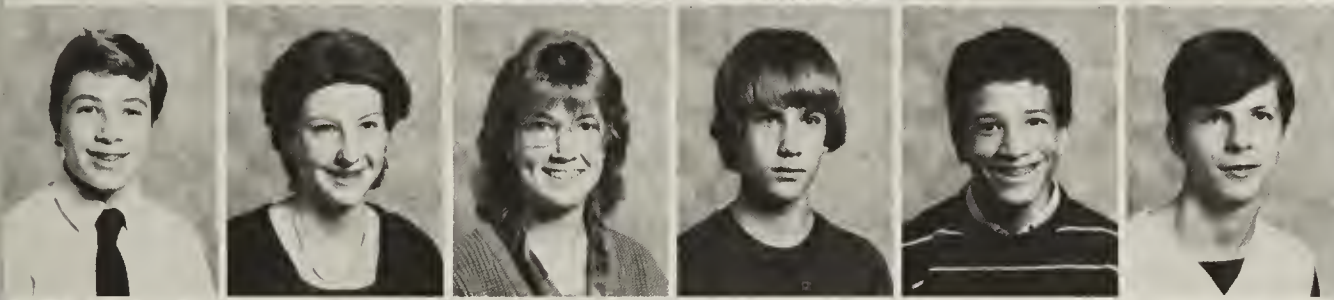

Among the many new experiences available to the freshmen were extra-curricular activities such as various sports and cheerleading. One of the more popular ones was Marching Band. Freshmen were required to attend band camp during the summer. This was one of the activities that freshmen could get involved with before school. Another one was cheerleading. And there were always the many various clubs throughout the school such as Junior Civitan, Inklings, and the Drama Club. Many also enjoyed trying out for and working with the school play done every year at PCHS. All in all, their first year of high school was very active for the freshmen.

Freshmen found that getting involved in football was very exciting.

Greg Davis gathers his courage to address the freshman class in the Little Theatre. Many freshmen dreaded this part of the race for class officers.

Very Visible Leadership

"I feel the student body has a better attitude toward learning."

— Carl Lindstrom

The people who kept PCHS on course this year were always accessible to the students and community. Before many students were up each day, Mr. Huff was already working at the high school. Mrs. Myers was a familiar sight in the mornings as she moved about the Commons area. As students were loading the buses in the afternoon they could see and speak with Mr. Dunavant. Mr. Viers was a great assistant to both faculty and students in not only the vocational building, but in the entire school. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Riley were also very busy during the day. They too spent much time working with students and parents to give each student a quality education. With a student body of 2400 + students, theirs was no easy task. The high school was visited by the Superintendent, Kenneth Dobson, who took time out of his busy schedule to meet with staff and students.

All these people were behind the scenes, but they certainly didn't stay there!

Mr. Robert Riley, Vocational/Building Principal

Mr. Dewey Wilson, Principal

The Pulaski County School Board, headed by Mr. Dobson, kept themselves aware of the schools' needs by meeting frequently.

HELPING HANDS

"I love my work!"
— Mrs. Bishop.

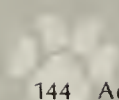

The secretaries and guidance people were the foundation of the school year. Guidance counselors were very helpful with planning for the future and dealing with problems in the present. Secretaries were expected to do many duties other than typing and filing. Guidance counselors helped students decide what classes to take and where they should go to college. One could always find a smiling face when he walked into the office. Planning and helping were the main objectives around the guidance office. Pod secretaries were a big help for everyone. They not only kept the pods organized, but made sure all the teachers were satisfied.

Mrs. Brown, secretary in the administrative office, checks over Meg Kemp's pass.

A newcomer to the school, Mrs. Ratcliffe seems to have made herself at home in the Social Studies pod.

Formulas for Life

"I love it! It's the greatest pod in the school"

— Mrs. Layman

What's that smell? This was one of the questions asked while going through the science pod. It was known for its authentic smells and unusual projects within it. Whether teaching how to mix chemicals, dissect a frog, or study elements, the fourteen teachers in the science pod could truly be classified as one of a kind.

$2x + 3 = y$, this was just one of the many equations solved in math classes. But, how do you work this problem? Through the help of teachers, of course; they were always there teaching and helping the students. There were twenty teachers in the math pod. Whether teaching how to deal with the measurements, properties, and relationships as expressed in numbers and symbols, or dealing with the media of art, which was also taught in the math pod, they were fully dedicated and put forth much effort to make their classes a success.

Life in the social studies pod was very busy but interesting. There were twenty-four teachers in this pod. Whether teaching history, government, geography, or one of the many foreign languages, the teachers put a lot into these classes to make them interesting and help the students understand these important subjects.

The English pod consisted of twenty-one teachers teaching classes ranging from basic grammar to speech and debate. Giving vocabulary tests and teaching was not all the English teachers did. Many spent time working with the literary magazine, the yearbook staff, and the forensics team.

They were teachers in a very different sense of the word. They did not teach ancient history nor did they diagram sentences. They did not always insist on absolute quiet nor did they get excited when a student got out of his seat. They were the vocational teachers, a large and diverse group that prepared students for the "real" world, the "world of work." Roger Caudell and Bill McNeely taught students how to repair automobiles, while Karl Polson, Wythe Morris, Duane Dishon, and Mike Cox were agriculture instructors in a agriculturally oriented community.

To break the monotony of the day, Mr. Anderson reads an article from the newspaper.

Watching from the gymnasium press box, the cafeteria workers enjoy their overall view of the Homecoming Pep Rally.

Second shift custodians, Ralph Neece, William Ward, and Sam Alger take time from their busy schedule for a photo.

After lunch, Frank Baldwin assumes one of his many duties and sweeps the Commons Area.

Helping Hands

The helping hands of PCHS were the cafeteria workers and the custodians. These people were the ones to make sure students had a hot meal everyday, and that the locker banks were kept clean.

The cafeteria workers were here each morning before most of us were out of bed. These ladies spent all morning preparing for the noon meal. The cafeteria workers took any complaints in stride although few could be given for the tremendous job they do.

Many may have seen the custodians at work, especially after lunch. These were the people who made sure all the gum was out of the carpet and all of the paper was thrown away. When many were leaving, the second shift could be seen reporting to work. These people were the ones who cleaned the pods. All things considered, without the helping hands PCHS could not operate. These helping hands worked with little recognition but performed a necessary task very well.

Gary Clark, a 1980 graduate of Pulaski County High School and a former Cougar football player, has achieved much success since he left Pulaski County six years ago. After Gary graduated he continued his education at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va. Gary was later picked up by the Jacksonville Bulls, a United States Football team. From his success there Gary moved to the National Football League where he was chosen to play for the well known Washington Redskins.

Swing to Victory

What team has had a winning season every year for the past eleven years? The Boy's Tennis team!

The 1985 tennis team enjoyed another fine RVD season, posting a regular season record of 8-4 and an overall record of 11-5, including first place in the annual Christiansburg High invitational tournament.

Rodney Landreth and Ken B. Alexander were the team's most valuable players posting 12-4 and 13-3 singles records respectively. Jon Neblett, 1984's MVP, was the team co-captain, and held down the number one singles position. Ken Alexander was also a co-captain.

Senior Pat Morris got 10 wins at number four, while Chris Bushong had a winning season at number five. Sophomores Todd Burchett and Tommy Webb shared the sixth position.

Despite losing talented starter, Brad Frazier, to an ankle injury following the third match of the year, PCHS still achieved its 11th winning season in the school's eleven years.

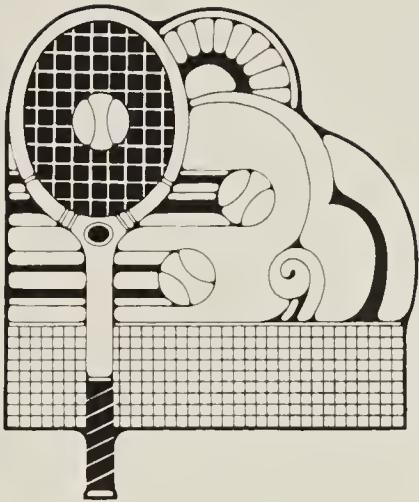

Boys' Tennis Team: Brad Powers, Steven Akers, Will Macgill, Bobby Vaughn, Dwayne D'Ardenne, Eric Anderson, Back Row: Chad King, Scott Ratcliffe, Howard Petruziello, Scott Neighbors, Ron Boles.

Game . . . Set . . . Match

Even though they lost two Seniors, this year's tennis team accomplished an overall record of 3-7 and managed to make it to the district tournament. They took on Salem, the top ranked team in the Roanoke Valley District, and although they were defeated, they gave the #1 team some tough competition.

Nancy Gibson had a most exciting season. She won many of her matches in three sets. Susan McElhaney and Karen Aker also did exceptionally well in doubles. One of the most improved players over the season was L.E. Hyde. She was playing doubles when the matches ended. A Senior teammate, Julie Chaffin, had been playing since she was a sophomore. This year she did her best ever and was one of the team's outstanding players.

The team had a new coach to begin their training, Ms.

Mary McElhaney. On the court and off, she gave her team the advice and assistance which helped them to improve their skills. She looked forward to the next year when she anticipates some of her doubles players will move into the singles matches and some who didn't play during the past season would become part of the traveling team.

Moving into action, L.E. Hyde returns the ball to her opponent.

Swinging Into the Winner's Circle

The 1985-86 Golf Team worked hard this season and strived to do better with each game. Coach Butch White was pleased with the great improvement made this year by the Sophomore members and the steady play for the Juniors.

Captain, Chris Bushong, was the only Cougar to play at regionals this year. He felt his performance was good, but could use some improvement.

Coach White and other members of the team felt that even with the absence of Seniors the team did very well. With a strong force of skills in the five Juniors on the team, next year's squad should be exceptionally impressive.

The amount of support from the underclassmen on the team was impressive and made a big difference. Everyone on the team practiced hard to improve basic strokes drives. Coach White believes that the advancement in playing power will be seen more next season.

WINNERS AGAIN!

Roanoke Valley District Champions — the title was still held by the Pulaski County Cougars Varsity baseball team. They held the title for the fifth time since 1978. Getting the title was not an easy task. Practice didn't always make perfect until a hard team was beaten.

With a 16 and 1 record, any one could see that the team effort was heart and soul of the Varsity Baseball team. During the regular season, the Cougars only had one loss and that was to Franklin County; but that loss never stopped the Cougars. They pulled it together and came back even stronger.

"One loss in baseball can happen to anyone," said Coach Wally Flinchum. Hard work, practice, and togetherness — that was what an RVD consists of, and there's no substitute for that.

With his eye on the ball, Steve Alley starts his run to first base.

Putting his all into it, Charles Crowder keeps his eye on the plate and concentrates on getting a strike.

Winners Through and Through

The J.V. Baseball team worked very hard last year. The season was very good ending with a record of 10-2-1. The J.V. coaches were Coach Reece and Coach Bowler. The team worked very hard every day. Each player did his best at his position. The hitting was excellent and those who hit exceptionally well were Bobby Easter, third base and Tim

Belcher, pitcher and short stop. Again this year the pitching was outstanding. The team pitchers for the season were Tim Belcher, Tim Viers, Wyatt Whitlock, Kevin Lester, and Chris Cox. In the infield were: First Base — Casey Nicely, John Anderson, and Ron Chaffin; Second Base — Dwayne Linkous, and Terry Branch; Short Stop — Tim Belcher, Alan Young, Butch White, and Troy Dalton; Third Base — Bobby Easter, and Richie Hurst; Catchers — Mark Cox, Shannon Crawford, and Mark Chrisley; Outfielders — Doug Dalton, Jerry Hopkins, Derek Wright, Billy Ritter, Tim Morris, and Joe Duncan.

The baseball team definitely had a lot of depth in the team, and if somebody became injured there was always an equally good replacement who could come in and get the job done. The team had a lot of enthusiasm and was always helping and rooting each other on. The coaches made the team work hard, but it really paid off in the long run. Over all it turned out to be a very fun and rewarding year.

DEDICATION AND SPIRIT

Volleyball is a sport which requires concentration. The girls who participated in this year's team proved their ability and determination by winning every second match of a tri match. With each match the team worked harder.

Freshman are encouraged to come out for the team because time is necessary to develop the necessary skills and to become an accomplished player. As students progress through their four years, the team becomes stronger; this was the case for the '85-'86 Cougars. Although young, the team, drew support from their fans, their coach, and most of all from each other. Using what they had learned proved to be the key to a winning season.

What a year for the Cougar Volleyball team! Each and every player showed a lot of desire and enthusiasm. All members showed up for practice everyday and vacations were even missed in order that the players might improve their skills in summer camps.

Each player showed support for one another and when the going got rough, the support was always there. Most members would say their successful season was due in part to hard work and lots of practice. Others would say the success came in the support and team spirit which the team kept throughout the year.

The Volleyball team, having just won a match, congratulate each other on a job well done.

Cindy Chrisley dives for the ball to make a point for PCHS.

INDIVIDUAL WRESTLERS

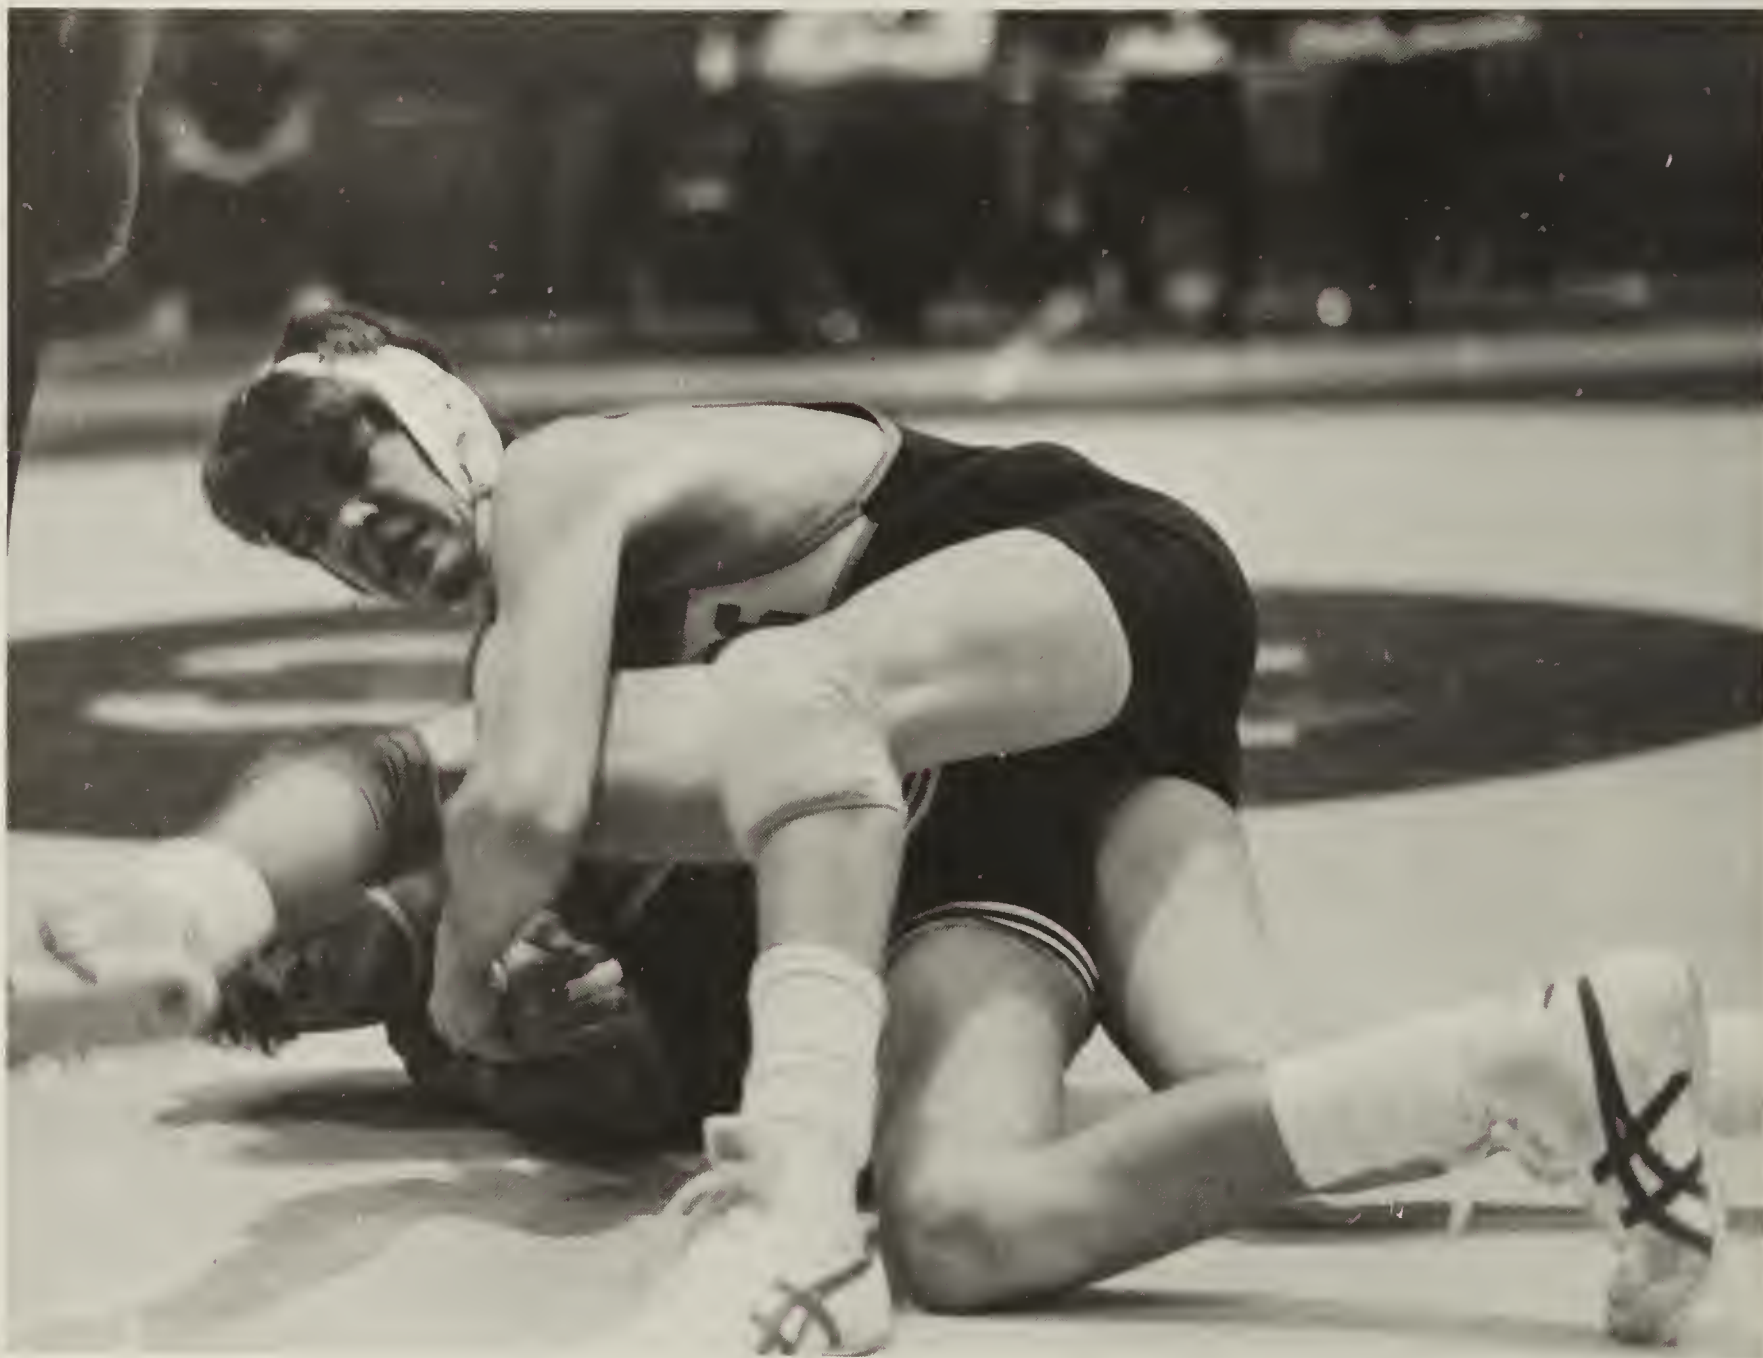

The Pulaski County Wrestling team with new Coach, Mr. Tom Hale, had a record of 1-14 at the end of the season. The team had only three seniors this year. They were Brian Golden, Randall Morris, and Joe Moorehead who finished the season undefeated. Many other wrestlers had outstanding records. Tim Morris, a junior in the 126-pound class was 14-1-1, and senior captain Randall Morris in the 132-pound class had a fantastic 15-4 mark. High expectations were placed on these three top wrestlers at the Roanoke Valley District championship on February 15, 1986. The team went through some rough times at the beginning of the season. They were a very young team and had to forfeit a lot of matches because they didn't have people in everyweight class, but by the end of the season more people had gotten involved and filled some of the vacant spots. Coach Hale stated, "The program has enough quality youngsters to be very successful in the future and more will come". This was a learning year for the PCHS wrestlers. Discipline was a needed step forward for them; it helped the team as a whole. Though it was a tough season, many players excelled.

A unique feature of the sport of wrestling is that a wrestler is given individual recognition for his victory. The team's hard work and dedication paid off. The team was young, but they were never taken lightly as an opponent. Their team spirit kept them tough and it kept them together even in their individual matches.

Getting A Hold On Success

Their first real season of high school wrestling was a good one. They finished with a record of 3-2 in the Roanoke Valley Junior High District. They also placed fourth in the District Tournament held on January 19, 1986. Overall, the young Cougars won 11 medals in 15 weight classes. The team had two team members who took 1st place, two who took 2nd place, three who took 3rd place, and four wrestlers who took 4th place. The District Medalists for first place were Roger Ramsey and Phillip Long — Class 77 lbs. Second place were Jeff Hager and Raymond Martin — Class 94 and 119. Third place were Chuck Smith — Class 122; Chris McClanahan — Class 134; and Curtis King — Class 150. Fourth place were Wayne David — Class 98; Ray Bessler — Class 105; John Phillips — Class 112; and Brian Ward — Class 170.

The major purpose for Freshman Wrestling was to prepare the young wrestlers for the competition they would eventually face in Varsity Wrestling. Most players agreed that it was also an excellent sport to be a part of and to excel within one's four years at PCHS. Not only did freshman wrestle but also several eighth graders from Dublin Middle School contributed their talents to the total team effort. Coach Anderson was proud of the performance of the Middle School players; he said their spirit was truly appreciated by the team.

The freshman wrestlers strove to improve and they counted determination as being the reason for their successes.

During an intense bout, a Cougar wrestler puts a hold on his competitor. Learning the various maneuvers was exciting to all the players and they soon found out much training and skill was needed to successfully pin their opponents.

How do They do It?

"The past four years in gymnastics will be remembered as one of the inspiring memories of my high school years. The hard work paid off and I owe it all to Mrs. Holcomb. Thanks." — Teresa Danner

Being on the Pulaski County gymnastics team was a lot of hard work and dedication spent on practicing a routine. There was a great deal of fun in having a good routine and in being able to win. Sweat, muscle cramps, an occasional ripped palm or injured ankle or wrists were just a part of the twenty girls' practices for five days a week. Each team member supported each other towards perfection, and their determination was their way to accomplish that perfection.

The Pulaski County Cougar gymnastics team coached by Betty Holcomb and Shirley Perry had a successful season. The Lady Cougars gave it their best shot in every meet. Starting the season out with Patrick Henry, the Lady Cougars won with a score of 82.3 to 90.55. Placing nine gymnasts in the four events. The Lady Cougars won a second match with Blacksburg and Radford with a total of 89.9 again placing nine gymnasts in the four events. This was the first time in seven years that the Lady Cougars had defeated Blacksburg. The third meet was a close match with Salem, with final team scores of 99.75 to 93.15 this time placing four gymnasts in the four events. The team still had a winning spirit and concentrated on the next meet with Christiansburg and Cave Spring. As always Cave Spring was a tough competitor and the tri-meet ended with a second place for Pulaski County with scores of 97.65, Cave Spring 88.35, Pulaski County; and Christiansburg holding a 66.85, placing four gymnasts in the four events. The last meet held with Franklin County was a victory score of 95.0 to 97.2 and finished the season with a record of 6 wins and 2 losses.

The team travelled to Cave Spring for Districts and placing there were Lady Cougars: Caren Davis, Charlie Painter, Gina Farlow, Teresa Danner. These girls travelled on to Regionals, which were held at Pulaski County High this year. Those who placed at this level competed at Virginia Beach for State Competition.

This year's team consisted of three Seniors, three Juniors, ten Sophomores and three Freshman. Outstanding performances were given by freshman Caren Davis — All Around; Sophomores, Natalie Kelly — Beam & Leigh Ann Witt — All Around; Junior Terri Thompson — Floor exercise; and Seniors Teresa Danner — Uneven Parallel Bars and Carol Jones — Beam.

This year's team drew a large supportive crowd. The team worked hard and grew very close to each other as team members.

A Winning Streak

Those who participate in a cross country team are special people. In order to perform their best, they must rise early, stretch to warm up, and then run, run, run!

The PCHS Cougars are extra special. For three years they have gone undefeated in the Roanoke Valley District. This record is a result of an immense amount of hard work and caring on the part of the team and Coach Wright. A team works together to be successful, but this team was comprised of many outstanding individuals without whom the entire effort would have suffered. In All District, Marty Hawks, Tony Rose, Donald Scott, Richard Martin, and Shawn Hash all scored highly. Katrina Moore, the only girl on the team, did well in All District also. In the Regional Meets Shawn Hash, Katrina Moore, and Richard Martin did exceptionally well.

For everyone who put in long hours on the team, the reward was a well-deserved winning steak. Next year's team is looking to maintain this high standard.

Jimmy Phipps gives it all that he's got to outrun his Patriot rival.

Stride By Stride

"I was very pleased with the team's work habits and the excellent senior leadership, also with the way they worked with the girl's track team."

— Coach Mickey Hickman

Stride by stride is how you describe the 1985 Boys Varsity Track team. The Cougar track season went very well with a record of 5-1.

The willingness to practice really paid off, this was shown in the six meets where twenty-one members scored in competition. Mike Carter set the pace by entering six meets where twenty-one members scored in competition. Mike Carter set the pace by entering six different events at each meet. In District competition, Chuck Daughtery, came away with two second place wins, in the 1600 and 3200 meter runs. K.G. Holmes secured second place in the 100 meter dash and Kevin Hendricks came in third. Richie Hasson received fifth place in disc and shot. Mike Carter came in fourth in high hurdles and sixth in the 1600, and Woody Phillips who came in sixth in the 800. The 1600 relay team also played a big part in the Varsity team and they were, Brian Cruft, Bill Lewis, Jason Cook, and Danny Dodson.

When asked about the outcome of the track season, Coach Hickman felt that the team was just where he wanted them to be. The record of only one loss plus having eight people go to regionals summed up the team's performance; it was a team to be proud of.

Practice for the girls track team started in the middle of February. Cold and damp weather caused the girls to bring their "sweats" every day. Since meets started in mid March it didn't give the girls but one month to practice. For Senior Melissa McCrorey the season was very good. Melissa became district champion for the second time in discus. She qualified for state meet in "eighty-four" and "eighty-five." Melissa placed second in regionals and placed in the top ten in state. Three records were broken. Katrina Moore, sophomore, broke two of these records. She ran the 3200 run in 13:21 and the 1600 run in 5:50. The following people placed in the district meet: Senior Melissa McCrorey — 1st, discus; Freshman Kim Meredeth — 6th, 1600; Maria Slomka — 5th, long jump; Veronica Simms — 4th, 200; Sophomores Renee Moone — 4th, 400 and Katrina Moore — 4th, 1600 and 4th in the 3200 meter run.

"After getting to know each other we came out as a family. Everyone worked together and made a great football team."

Learning is the key to improvement. Football is no exception. A player who strives for individual improvement gains appreciation from his teammates. A team is composed of many players; their success depends on these individuals working together.

Blocking, tackling, holding, running, catching, passing, receiving, and kicking are the physical requirements for playing football.

Concentration, alertness, stamina, courage, mental ability, intelligence and enthusiasm are the mental requirements for playing football.

This year's season achieved a 4-2 record. Highlights of the season included: Bill Holmes, turning a 97 yard touchdown against Cave Spring; Jeff Hardy scoring all four touchdowns against Franklin County; and Greg Allen, Mitch Williams, Barry Gilbert, Todd Wade, and Jerry Smith making the All District Team.

Coach Marrs was pleased with the team's performance this year and he says the team has really grown into a mature group of football players. The team worked together and played each game with a positive attitude. There is no doubt, next year's J.V. team will be very strong.

Young But Talented

The Cougar Varsity Football team was the pride of Pulaski County for many years in the past, and the '85-'86 team was no exception. The team had an extraordinary 8-2 record despite many tough, challenging opponents. Coach Joel Hicks led the team with the help of the coaching staff which consisted of the following coaches: Reedy, Akers, Reece, Anderson, Scharnus, Skeen, Flinchum, and Marrs. This excellent coaching staff assisted the players and helped them to improve in their individual positions.

The 1985-'86 year was the year for many "first-time" accomplishments, and the breaking of records. The Varsity team beat Bluefield, W. Va. for the first time in several years. The West Virginia teams had been tough competition for the Cougars in the past so beating Bluefield was a great achievement and thrill for the Cougars.

In addition to the victory over Bluefield, the Cougars broke a record for the number of first downs made by the team. They had a total of 144 and held their opponents to just 70 first downs.

The Cougar offense was led by an outstanding quarterback, Randall Meredith. Randall completed 41 of 94 passes for 797 yards. He not only passed the ball but ran with it for several touchdowns. Another excellent player was Senior, Rodney Landreth. He broke a record for yardage in punt returns. Rodney returned 24 for 382 yards. He also had six interceptions for the season.

The team had many young players including Kevin Hendricks, Junior; and Doug Hendricks, Sophomore. Kevin broke the record for having the most yards in a season with a total of 818 yards.

Strong . . . Rugged . . . Ready to Win!

The J.V. Football team had a first-rate year under the direction of new coach, Freddie Akers. If this team is an indication of future Varsity players, look out!! In every match this season, this aggressive group played hard and played to win. They practiced long hours in the summer and fall when other students enjoyed leisure time, but they didn't grumble. Their reward came in their many victories, particularly the one achieved against Cave Spring, arch rival of the Cougars. At half-time of that exciting game, the score was a dubious 0-0. But the mighty J.V. came back and pulled a 10-0 victory.

The J.V. team had the best record in the district. Most of the players would like to have played more games, but were proud of their winning season nevertheless. Many of their fans, including Coach Joel Hicks, look forward to having this incredible force play for the Varsity team next year.

The 1985-86 Girls' Basketball Team had a challenging season. With a relatively young team they performed well against much older and experienced competition. Coach Reedy pushed the girls to strive toward a new goal with each game. Although they may not have won every game, they still learned from their mistakes, and later would use that knowledge to win a victory.

Jody Manns had an outstanding season. She was very good at moving the ball down the court. She also scored many points during the games. Cindy Chrisley also made an impressive performance on the court. Her sister, Becky, learned much from playing on the same team. Many others achieved individual recognition throughout the season and improved with each game.

The team worked hard at their practice sessions to refine skills such as teamwork, foul shots, and successful guarding of an opponent. As one player pointed out — each game had much excitement in it even if one didn't get to play for a long time. Most of the girls would agree that being on the team took determination and a great deal of patience. The Lady Cougars were always spirited and ready to win!

A Challenging Season

The 1985-86 Cougar Basketball season got underway on December 6, 1985 with a home game against Blacksburg. From the beginning there was a sense of challenge as the Cougars took the court. With only four Seniors, the team was relatively young but they never let the odds get them down. The four Senior team members were George Penn, Boyd Williams, Chris Davis and Jeff Clendenon. These four had exceptional teamwork when they were together. They set good examples for the Juniors Randy Chinault, Ray Bowman, Barry McCloud, Eric Penn, George Penn, Ron Shelburne, Nick McCrary, Tim Belcher, and Eric White. Anthony Akers was the only Sophomore on the squad, but he played very well in his position as point guard.

Starting for the Cougars this season was Forward — Ron Shelburne; Guard — Boyd Williams; Center — George Penn; Forward — Nick McCrary; and Point Guard — Anthony Akers. The bench also provided good replacements when needed and Eric Penn impressed fans several times along with teammates Chris Davis, Ray Bowman, Tom Belcher, Barry McCloud, and Randy Chinault.

During the games, Nick McCrary, proved to be a real powerhouse. Ron Shelburne had a solid season accomplished with much hard work. George Penn was the team leader putting spirit into his work, and Boyd Williams proved he could be a defensive player on whom Coach Wiley could depend.

Totally Together Team

The 1985-86 Junior Varsity Basketball Team began their season with a new coach, Mr. Mark Hanks. Coach Hanks was a former graduate of PCHS who was an outstanding basketball player himself. Coming back was a thrilling experience for him. After practices began the team got to know him and many felt honored to have his leadership on the court.

The season actually began long before the December games. The players had to practice for several hours each week, but none minded. The hard work would pay off later when they went against their opponents. The team knew they could not win every game, but they would always give their very best.

After losing or winning a game the team would try to learn from their successes r failures. They practiced rebounding and lay-up shots in an effort to improve. The theme of this team seemed to be to always think ahead to playing the best even though a player might have fouled out or become injured. Coach Hanks was always encouraging his team to try harder, and he always stressed the importance of teamwork and a united effort.

Success in a sport is often measured by the number of wins. Although the J.V. team played many close games and lost a few, their fans felt they had been a very successful team. The J.V. Cougars had succeeded in developing such skills as sportsmanship and teamwork, skills which would be important long after a close Tuesday night game was over.

Spirited Young Cougars

The Freshman Basketball team, under the leadership of Coach Scharnus, had a good season. Although they found the competition was harder than that of the middle school level, they were never discouraged. For many of the players it was the first time they had ever played before a large audience, so they had to learn not only to keep a cool head on the court, but also to ignore the many eyes fixed upon them. They worked hard to improve with each victory and each defeat and they never gave up. No matter how they may have played, Coach Scharnus was always upbeat and full of enthusiasm. The team truly admired their coach and strove to give him a victory.

One of the key players was Johnathan Penn. Johnathan had the season high score with 19 points against Franklin County. Other players did well also and greatly improved over the season. Working together, the team had a lot of school spirit and always showed great sportsmanship. It was a learning experience for all involved.

Keeping the Faith

"I think the best thing about being a varsity cheerleader is getting to meet people."

— Robin Porter

Enthusiastic ... optimistic ... energetic ... enduring ... spirited ... proud ... These were qualities that all good cheerleaders possessed and these were the qualities of the Varsity cheerleaders.

The Varsity Football and Basketball Cheerleaders were the force behind the teams. They kept up the spirit and excitement of the fans which led the teams to victories.

The Varsity Football Cheerleaders had an exciting year. Their cheering season did not start at the beginning of the school year but long before.

They attended a cheerleading camp at the University of Virginia in August. Here the girls not only learned new cheers but participated in contests where they came away with an unbelievable thirteen ribbons. While at camp many of the girls felt that the squad became closer. A unity developed between them.

Every Thursday the football cheerleaders provided food for the football players at the field house. The cheerleaders baked cookies and brownies for the players as a little celebration before the big game on Friday.

The football squad not only cheered for football during the fall but they also cheered at wrestling matches during the winter. Although there was a difference in cheering for wrestling than for football, the girls still enjoyed it.

Many of the girls felt that one of the best points about cheering on the football squad was the feeling they had when cheering in front of thousands of people. This was only a feeling that could be described by a Varsity Football Cheerleader as simply, GREAT!

The Varsity Basketball Cheerleaders actually started cheering in the fall. The basketball squad also cheered for the cross country track team.

The basketball squad attended the Universal Cheerleading Association camp held at James Madison University in August. The girls learned new cheers and brought back numerous awards.

There were not as many people at basketball games as there were at football games but basketball cheerleaders were required to cheer at more events. They were often the center of attention because of the smaller area in which they cheered. This also meant that if they made a mistake it was easier to spot. But many mistakes were not made by the basketball cheerleaders as they supported their team not only when the team was winning but also when they were losing.

The Varsity Cheerleaders kept the faith that kept the spirit of the fans alive!

More Than Just Spirit!

What was a cheerleader? Some people might have thought cheerleaders were just to show everyone what the school colors were. But that definition didn't apply to the '85-'86 J.V. and Freshman cheerleaders. These girls were filled with Cougar pride and spirit all year through.

The JV Squad began their practice at the end of the 1985 school year. In July they went to Virginia Tech to the UCA Cheerleading Camp. There they had many competitions. They won many "superior" ribbons and a spirit stick every day of camp. They also were in the final competition. When school began they didn't stop practicing. The many cheers, pyramids, and pom-pom routines took much work and patience.

The Freshman Cheerleaders started their practice at the beginning of the school year. Their practices were twice a week during the Freshman football and basketball seasons. The squad members all felt very proud to be a part of the PCHS cheerleaders; their first pep rally was one most would never forget. Still, with all the butterflies in their stomachs, they represented their class with style and spirit!

Both squads had one goal in mind — to fire up the student body. Mrs. Gooch, the JV sponsor and Mrs. Morgan, the Freshman sponsor, gave the girls advice and they were the cheerleaders' "cheerleader". It was a special experience for everyone involved and one none will ever forget.

Principal Dewey Wilson presents Joe Guthrie with a pin for his outstanding achievement as being first runner-up in the National Prepared Public Speaking Contest.

Joe Guthrie, a 1985 graduate of Pulaski County High School and an outstanding agricultural economics student at Virginia Tech, gained much recognition as a member of the Future Farmers of America. While at PCHS, Joe was Vice-President and Treasurer of his school chapter as well as being president of the New River Federation.

Joe won the local, state, and regional awards in the FFA Prepared Public Speaking Contest. His speech was entitled "Future Survival . . . the Real Farm Issue". Joe then went to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City where he was first runner-up in the national contest.

Joe also received the State Farmer Degree. This award was one of the highest degrees that could be awarded to an FFA club member.

Supporters of PCHS

CA and Pep Club were the two main clubs that supported PCHS. SCA stood for Student Cooperative Association. SCA sponsored all of the Homecoming events: Homecoming dance, the girls' Beauty Pageant, and the Canned Food Drive. SCA met once a month during first period. All first period representatives and SCA officers attended and Mr. Duncan was the sponsor.

sor.

Pep Club was a club which showed spirit to each and every student. It provided encouragement and support to students in school activities. Members made locker stickers, banners, and sometimes provided cookies and snacks for the athletes when the teams had a special game or match.

The biggest job Pep Club did each year was putting the football program together. They spent a great deal of time selling ads and assembling the program.

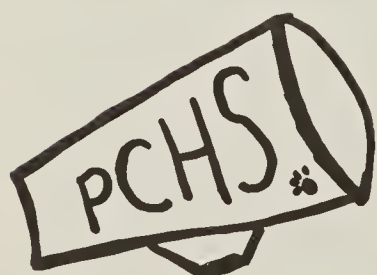

Another project was ordering sweatshirts for the forty members of the club. Pep Club met sixth period and was sponsored by Mrs. Skeen.

Future Achievers of America

The Pulaski County Chapter of the Future Farmers of America was one of the largest clubs at PCHS. Members participated in many activities and projects; the one most recalled was the fruit sale prior to the Christmas holidays. The sale had become an expected event, but the fundraiser took a great deal of time on the part of the members and the sponsors: Mr. Duane Dishon, Mr. Michael Cox, and Mr. Wythe Morris, and Mr. Karl Polson. The effort was always worthwhile for it raised several thousand dollars to finance the club's many worthwhile activities.

Students who took Agriculture classes became members of the club and all enjoyed attending meetings and local, district, state, and — in the case of Joe Guthrie, a Senior from last year, — the National Convention. Joe won the local, state, and regional awards in the FFA Prepared Public Speaking Contest. He then went on to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City. There he was honored to achieve first runner-up. Many members were inspired by Joe to work harder to achieve their goals.

Skilled Enjoyment

Over two hundred students are enrolled in the Vocational Industrial Club of America (VICA). This club is indeed one of the largest clubs at PCHS but its many divisions prove it is a worthwhile organization for its members. Students who were enrolled in the Trade and Industrial program could become members of the club. The students found that through VICA, young men and women were given an unusual opportunity to practice important skills as they participated in many activities and a variety of projects.

One of the important events in which the VICA members participated was the District VII Fall Rally. This program combined social and business skills which the students learned in their vocational classes. District officers were elected and were responsible for helping formulate state policies which affected VICA. Because PCHS had such a large membership, it could be influential at this rally. The members greatly enjoyed this part of the school year and also enjoyed meeting others with similar interests and classes.

Another event in which VICA was active was the Skill Olympics and Leadership Contest. In this contest the most accomplished members competed against others from different schools. In this event, which was held for a week in July, students participated on the district, state, and national levels. To be able to participate in this event was an honor, and many outstanding PCHS students received that honor.

VICA not only competed in skill contests but also was active in community service projects. Each Christmas, VICA had a large Christmas party to benefit underprivileged children. The party was very successful this year.

Impressionable Opportunities

Unusual smells and the sound of snipping were commonplace in the Cosmetology section of the Vocational Building. The members of this VICA division were always easy to spot around the high school for their hair always was stylish and well-tended. The students in Cosmetology had to complete 1,080 hours of preparation classes before they could be certified to work in a salon as a hair stylist. Although it sounded like a lot of hard work, all the students involved enjoyed their chosen vocation very much. The department was open for customers every Thursday evening until 7:00 p.m. Mrs. Bassett was the sponsor.

The students enrolled in Service Occupations went beyond home economics and service careers, and studied applying the principles of management and economics to prepare them for a variety of future occupations. Many of the students could be found learning their "lessons" in actual job situations. All involved enjoyed the class and felt that it was very useful.

HOSA (Health Occupations and Service Association) was one of the busiest clubs at PCHS. Members took their club activities and had a good time while learning more about their future careers in the wide field of health occupations. A big thrill came early in the year when their float won first prize in the Homecoming Parade. After the hard work, winning was a wonderful reward. The club's main interest lay in helping others. One of their service projects happened when they sponsored a blood pressure clinic in which all donations went to help a needy family at Christmas.

"FHA and HERO are fun and beneficial clubs which are related to Home Economics." — Mrs. Hemmings

Future Help in Homemaking

Future Homemakers of America was sponsored by Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Hemmings. It met second period and had twenty-two members. In their meetings they had a resource person from the community to come and talk about different things. They had someone to speak and have a demonstration on make-up and on cooking. In the meeting before Christmas they had someone to come and show how to make crafts for Christmas gifts.

The main money-making project that FHA had was the making and selling of hotdogs at all the home football games. With this money they bought equipment for the Home Economics classes. Each member of FHA enjoyed pizza, skating, and banana split parties.

Home Economics Related Occupations was sponsored by Mickey Weikle, Bonnie Graham, and Nancy Hester. They had seventy-four members and they met fifth period. Members of the club went to visit nursing homes three times a year and they made a mitten tree which was decorated with mittens and things for the needy. Members of HERO competed in competition both regional and state. They all enjoyed the Christmas party and Spring picnic held each year. The officers of HERO were: Denise Jarrells — President; Debbie Davis — Vice President; Karen McCambridge — Vice President; Peggy Baker — Secretary; Amy Morris — Chaplain; Betty Petty — Co-Historian; Angie Airwood — Co-Historian. Both of these clubs were related to Home Economics and each member enjoyed the activities in which they participated.

Preparing For Tomorrow

What club prepared a student for his future career? DECA prepared a student to develop a professional, social, leadership and civic awareness in his future career.

The club members are enrolled in Fundamental Marketing for Sophomores, Marketing for Juniors, and Advance Marketing for Seniors. While in class students learn how to be responsible for their money, to make a daily schedule, and to learn about taxes and financing. Students also learn the history of how a product is produced, put on the market, and how the consumer will buy the product.

This year's DECA officers were: President, Renee Hubbard; Vice President, Janet Hoosier; Secretary-Treasurer, Heather Lockwood; and Reporter, Teresa Danner.

Club activities included a hotdog party, and a skating party held at Cosmos Skating Rink. The Fall Rally was held at Virginia Tech with twenty other schools in the district, and the major project was the Operation Santa Claus. This project was the most important to the DECA Club members because it involved helping the underprivileged children. Their Christmas needs were given to their parents to be placed under the tree from a generous Santa Claus.

The Marketing class and the DECA Club were a good learning experience and one could apply everything he learned to his future. Every student adapted a new outlook and attitude about his life. They experienced the hardships of having a job and often missing out on important school activities. Marketing students devoted most of their time to work and to school. These students developed a new outlook on work. They tried hard to improve their work habits and their work skills. These students have a head start on finding out about working in the real world.

t's nice to be able to meet with other athletes who are Christians throughout the school." — Brad Frazier

Hey . . . I'm A Believer!

Two unique clubs offered students support and friendship. These clubs were established to bring together those students with a common interest in an interdenominational organization.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes was a club in which many athletes got together to share their experiences as Christians. The club membership was eighty-two. Though large in comparison to other clubs, the members still felt to be in a large family in which they could be themselves and discuss concerns which faced them not only as athletes but as young men and women in a complicated world. During the year club members participated in discussions with special guests who shared their personal experiences with the club. FCA members enjoyed learning how others as Christians had faced various situations. Many of the high school athletes were involved in the club. The sponsor was Ms. Holcomb who kept the meetings well-organized and interesting to all.

The Interdenominational Christian Fellowship club was an organization in which students united and shared their Christian experiences. The members offered encouragement to each other and this support helped them in turn encourage others. Throughout the year the club had a variety of interesting speakers to come and speak about their personal experiences. The ICF sent an invitation to everyone to come and enjoy the unique fellowship that was present among the members. Like FCA, the ICF gave its members a support to lean upon; it also gave them close friends. The ICF had thirty-seven members this year. The club sponsor was Mr. Vickers. He gave the club much guidance and superb leadership. The club co-president, Tim Crouse, defined the purpose of ICF as being, "... a club in which young Christians can get together and let their lights shine."

Preparing To Serve Others

Both FBLA and Jr. Civitan are clubs formed to help members learn about their role in the community as professionals and private citizens. Both clubs were very active in both school and extracurricular events.

The Future Business Leaders of America was a vocational club whose members were enrolled in business classes. The goal of this club was to prepare its members for a future in the growing world of business: sales, accounting, purchasing, communication, and management, to mention a few of these. The sponsors of FBLA were Miss Davidson and Mrs. Cline. These two teachers were very knowledgeable about the many areas of concern to their club. Officers were: Tracy Bonds, President; Lisa Hanshaw, Vice-President; Valerie Davis, Secretary; Donna Wheeler, Treasurer; Christy Swecker, Historian; and Wendy Conner, Parliamentarian. One of the club's most anticipated events was the Snow King, Snow Queen contest held at Christmas. Nominees collected money and the two who raised the most money by the end of the week, won. This year, Rhonda Cecil and Rodney Landreth raised the most money for a charity which helped children with cancer.

Junior Civitan was a civic organization which was sponsored by Mrs. Burnette, Chairman of the English Department. The Junior Civitan club met often to plan service projects. Some of their quite successful events included: taking baskets to the Nursing Homes during Christmas; selling "Gummie Bears and Gummie Squirms" in the Commons Area; raising and lowering the flag in the morning and afternoon; and holding a Snow Doe contest to raise money to send their district president on a snowmobile race across Canada. Officers this year were: Jeff Martin, President; Doug Farmer, Vice-President; Kathy Gooch, Sergeant-at-Arms; and Rachel Smith, Reporter.

Creative Competition

"Forensics is a competitive activity which allows students to improve speaking skills."
— Nicole Wagner

A great deal of time and effort went into the Drama Club. Dedication was a requirement of all members. Many hours were spent after school at play rehearsal.

In January members began rehearsing "Who's On First" and "Vanities", one-act plays which went to district competition. This was the first year that students were allowed to letter in drama. A banquet was held in honor of all members who lettered.

Dedication and effort was also a requirement of members of the Forensics Club. Most of the time at club meetings was spent preparing for competition. Members practiced their presentations and gave each other critical comments on how to improve. The following were first place winners in the school competition and these went on to district competition:

Original Oratory: David Dehaven and Jeanette Blankenship; Extemporaneous Speaking: Michael Arnold and DeAnne Callahan; Prose Interpretation: Curtis Alley and Nicole Wagner; Poetry Interpretation: Doug Farmer and Sharyn Morris; Serious Dramatic Interpretation: Doug Farmer; Humorous Dramatic Interpretation: Brian Lambert; Speller: Tina Potts.

Talented Achievers

The PCHS chapter of the National Honor Society was a very active organization. More than just a club to honor these students who consistently maintained high grade averages, it was also an organization concerned with improving the welfare of others. Money was raised for a Christmas project which bought two students needed clothing. Club members worked the concession stand at several home basketball games and donated the profits to the Special Olympics. And, in an effort to help students, free tutoring was given each morning in the Commons Area from 7:45 — 8:30.

Inklings was the name of the award-winning literary arts magazine of PCHS. A club was formed to help gather and edit the submissions made by students. The magazine, a totally student-oriented publication, consisted of student artwork, stories, essays, poetry, plays, and photography which the creative minds in the high school contributed. Members of the Literary Magazine club assisted Mr. Charles Goolsby and Mrs. Elaine Cook, sponsors of the club. The members and two sponsors worked hard to make the 1986 production as outstanding as its predecessors, especially the 1985 Inklings which won the national Columbia Scholastic Press Award.

This year's choirs were very large. Mr. Mont Quesenberry and Ms. Brenda Riggle were the directors of this musical group of people. Though large, the groups were still close and felt to be in one large family. Singing, singing, and still more singing brought them closer together with the one thing they all held in common — the love of beautiful music.

The choirs had many extracurricular activities which took place during the year. One of the premier events was the Junior-High All-Regional Chorus auditions held in November at Washington-Lee Jr. High in Bristol, Virginia. Twenty-one choir members from PCHS were selected. In the next similar event, the Senior High All-Regional Chorus Auditions held in Lebanon High School, forty-seven PCHS students were selected. This number was the highest ever achieved by the PCHS Choirs.

On December 15, 1985, the sounds of Christmas poured out into the school as the choirs joined their voices together to perform the annual Christmas concert. Though this event appeared to be done with ease, a great deal of practice had gone into the preparation for this performance. Many in the audience remarked it was one of the best Christmas events they had attended that season.

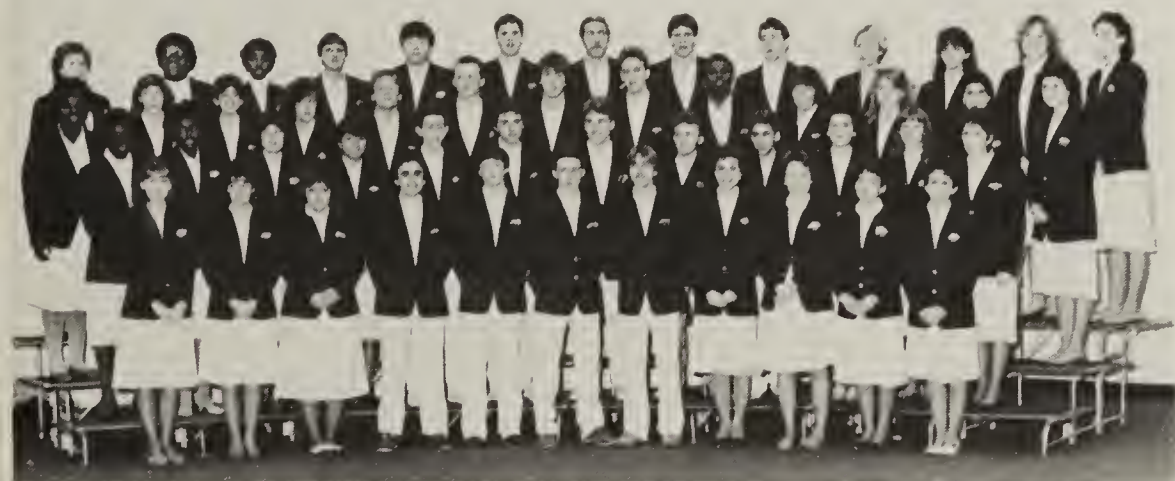

The Choirs not only sang together, but they also had fundraisers and used that money to pay for trips which they took for both "work" and pleasure. The Ninth Grade Choir went to Kings Dominion for competition (and fun) and the Concert Choir attended the Three Worlds of Florida Festival in Orlando, Florida. This event was anticipated by the choir members throughout the year. The awaited day came on May 7, 1986 and lasted through May 11.

In the spring, the choirs came together again for a Spring Concert. Winter was finally over.

In an unusual blend of harmonies, the band and choir perform at a football game. Many of the fans from Allegheny were hearty in their praise of the performance.

A Living Heritage

In order to learn more about the future one must look to the past. Two clubs at PCHS, one an originally established club and one newly formed, both explored their unique histories and its relationship to the present. These clubs centered their activities around the customs and traditions of their past generations.

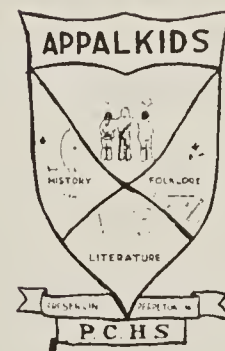

The older of these two clubs, the Black History Club, had a very active year. The BHC attended the Black Orientation which was held at Virginia Tech. Members were given a broader understanding of the campus and social life. The next activity in which the BHC was involved was a Black Awareness Program which they attended in November. The program was held at JMU in Harrisonburg, Virginia. During Black History month held in February, some of the BHC members participated in a cultural program at Wytheville Community College. The members gave a play which illustrated an aspect of their heritage.

Another club that brought cultural activities to the high school was APPALKIDS. This was a club that was formed in the spring of 1985. It concentrated on the Appalachian heritage of the school and the surrounding community. Members performed dramas that included The Jack Tales, and The Appalachian Alphabet. In the spring the club held an Appalachian Celebration for the community to experience many of the aspects of the culture.

— Double Hickam

"CHECK" It Out!

The game of chess is a most intriguing pastime and can prove to be very competitive. Students here at PCHS took the game very seriously but enjoyed playing. The chess club and the chess team worked hard to have a successful season.

The team traveled to many places and competed to defend their state title for the seventh year. It was sponsored by Mr. Quesenberry and practice was held every Monday in Pulaski. Tracy Callis was a very strong player during the season; he referred to the team as one with a lot of potential, but not as strong as in the past.

The chess club was a little different. They had club meetings on the third Monday of each month during third period. To attend the meeting a member was to hold an average of a "B" in that class. Mr. Shelton was the sponsor of the chess club.

The club didn't compete for a title or travel many places, but there were a few members of the club who went to area tournaments and participated.

Chess took a lot of concentration and skill to be able to play an accurate game. "Patience is a virtue" and members of both the team and the club strived for this.

Specialized Interests

The Cards and Comics club was what images were all about. Instead of just remembering the images, they collected them. Although established only last year, there were many members who took their hobby seriously. The club meetings consisted mainly of buying, selling, and auctioning cards and comic books. The auctions were thoroughly enjoyed and some members made a profit. The club attended card shows and participated in one of their own. Favorite cards included football and baseball; favorite comics ranged from Mad Magazine to Marvel Comics. The club truly enjoyed having fun with both the present and the past. This year a new club appeared among the many organizations and it was called the Hi Tech club. It was created by Mr. Warrington with the help of some of his students. The students scheduled meetings outside of school to work on their projects and to discuss new ideas. One project which did very well was the "Buckle-Up" drive. This program was to encourage all students to buckle up when they rode in a car. The Buckle-Up program was proof that with determination, a few can make a difference. The main purpose of the club was to teach students about modern communications. The club was broken down into three divisions: video production, photography, and computers.

Mr. Freeman shows the club a rare set of 1909-1910 tobacco cards featuring baseball greats: Ty Cobb, Christy Mathewson, and Cy Young.

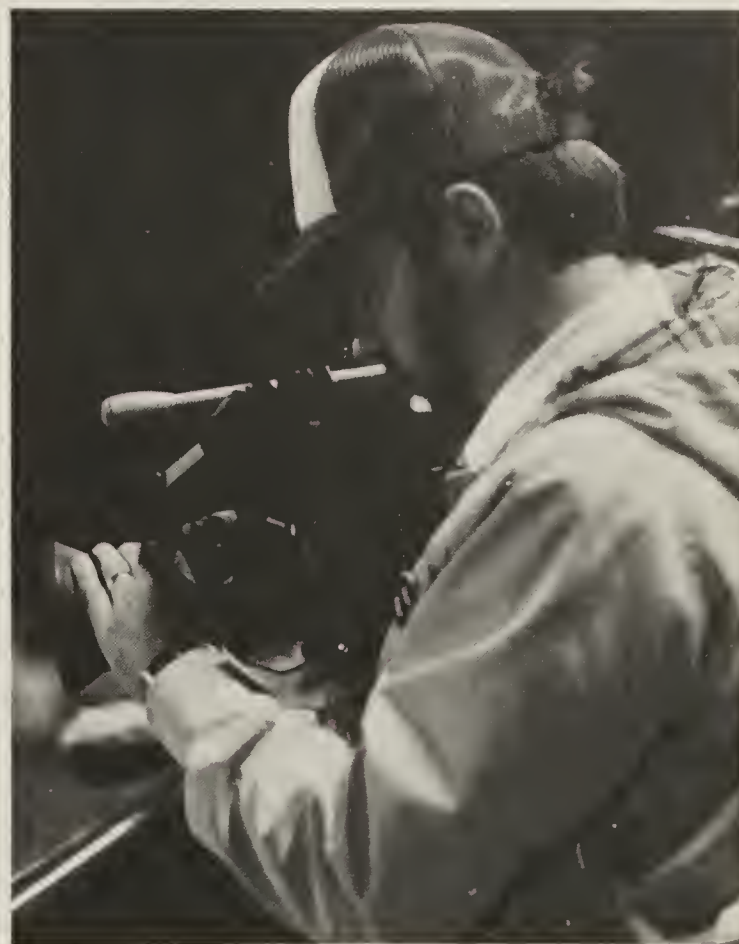

During a club meeting, Gary Lambert and Burke Kidd share card collections.

1985-86 Hi-Tech Club: Robert Hodges — Vice President; Larry Moye, Sean Sayers, Chris Wilson, K.C. Martin — President; Mark Edwards — Corresponding Secretary; Joe Trigg, Chris Arnold, Rick Henthorn, James Barr — Recording Secretary; Mr. David Warrington

dvertisements

Pulaski County is a land of valleys and mountains. A student who attended PCHS may have lived in a small town, on a farm, or in a wooded area with a mountain behind his home. His parents may have worked in Pulaski, Dublin, Radford, or Wytheville because Interstate 81 made traveling convenient to other highways such as Route 11 and 100. The high school, located in almost the center of the county, provides students with a variety of courses and an excellent vocational school. Many of the small businesses in the county are owned or manned by former PCHS graduates. Like the founders of the town of Pulaski who had visions of progress 100 years ago this year, the Cougars at PCHS are still setting goals for a better tomorrow.

Mike Hanks pauses to look over an eye-catching display of miniature cars. A student at PCHS had an impressive amount of buying power according to a survey conducted by the yearbook staff.

Volume 12 of the Pulaski County High School Cougar Pinnacle was printed by Herff-Jones Yearbooks in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. All printing was done using the off-set lithography process.

The paper weight was 80 lb. Bordeaux. End-sheets were 100 lb. textured white stock with a school design which was printed with black and gold ink applied. The cover was lithographed in four-color process. An original painting by Roger Caudell was separated by the direct screen preparation method and laminated. The cover board weight was 160 point. The book was rounded in back with colored headband; the binding was Smyth sewn.

The Type Family used throughout the book was Optima. Captions were printed in 8 point, Body Copy in 10 point, Subheadings in 12 point, Headlines in 42 point, and Division Pages in 72 point. The Index was done with the aid of a computer program.

2000 copies of the '86 Pinnacle were printed. The book was 288 pages in length; 9 x 12 in size.

Senior photography, underclass photography, and club photography were done by Max Ward-Delmar Studios, Inc. Several team pictures and candids were done by The Southwest Times. Color and black-and-white photography by Tinker and Jeannie Hillman, Mary Kelly, Missy Jackson, Mark Edwards, Mike Wolfe, Shannon Bishop, and Don Martin.

Historical Impressions

PCHS has been making history since its beginning in 1974 through academics, sports, and many talents.

From the beginning of PCHS in 1974 there have been many changes that have affected the students and faculty. All of these changes that have taken place have left an impression on each person involved.

The architecture of the school itself made an instant impression on each freshman class that entered.

The school was designed having four circular buildings within the main building. The circular buildings were named pods. Each pod pertained to four of the main academic classes; math, English, science, and social studies. The library or the Instructional Materials Center is surrounded by these four pods which makes it easily accessible.

Horizontally facing the main building is the vocational building which houses many classes for those students who want to pursue careers dealing with anything from mechanics to nursing.

The computer building was a new addition to the school that gave students a better atmosphere to learn more about the computer.

A fairly new school Pulaski County High was built in 1974 with a very unique circular design.

Sitting atop fellow seniors, Sunnie Vaughan and Missy Harrell show their dynamic spirit during a winter pep rally in honor of the winter sports.

Being on Homecoming Court was an experience these seniors will never forget as they await the announcement of King and Queen.

Charlie Painter and Patti Burchett display their Halloween costumes, a "nutty" professor and a Jack-O-Lantern.

Susan Mitchell, a contestant in the Miss PCHS pageant feels the excitement and fear of the contest but still stays in control.

Because of the overflow of fans at football games, plans for new seats in the football stadium were also being discussed for the school year 1986-1987.

There were 2,316 students with over 50 percent college-bound. There were 138 faculty members making a ratio of students to teachers 17:1.

Extracurricular activities were a very important aspect for the students. 1,004 students participated in 24 clubs that dealt with history, athletics, homemaking, and business.

In sports the basketball team was Roanoke

Valley District Champions in 1980 and 1984. They continued their success after regular season in 1984 by participating in the high school game held in Charlottesville, Va. The basketball team was not the only team that had showed great success; the football team was RVD Champions from 1981-1984 and was Northwestern Regional Champions in 1983 and in 1984. All of the achievements and successes during the history of PCHS has left an everlasting impression on everyone involved in the school.

Three members of the 1985-1986 Cougar Marching Band demonstrate their musical talents during half-time.

Carol Jones, a senior gymnastics member, shows her ability on the balance beam during a home competition.

A trophy case that sets in the main office displays some of the many achievements at PCHS.

Some of the Varsity Football players change their roles by trying their hands at cheerleading at the Homecoming pep rally.

Some Impressions

An impression is an effect produced on the mind or senses by some force or influence according to Webster's New World Dictionary.

Everything and everyone at PCHS left some kind of impression on a person, whether the impression was good or bad.

From the time that the school leaders, the Class of 1986, entered PCHS four years ago there had been many impressions left on these students and each class following.

Some said they would remember their Freshman year as being the toughest. Others said they would never forget getting their driver's license or turning sixteen. Getting one's class ring was certainly a high spot — it made a student feel pride in his class. But no impression would ever replace that sense of relief, joy, and sadness each Senior felt as he or she walked across the stage to receive that long-awaited diploma — the last impression for the

The mountains and valleys in which we live leave a lasting impression on our sense of beauty.

As each Senior goes his separate way to live his new life he will always remember the impressions of PCHS.
